Tigers Beaten In Final Game By Cincinnati

Redlegs Thrill Hometown Crowd With Rally In Seventh Inning To Score Two Runs For Victory

Newsom and Sullivan; Derringer and Wilson.

CROSLEY FIELD, Cincinnati, Oct. 8—Cincinnati's rampant redlegs won the world series today, four games to three, by beating Detroit Tigers in the seventh contest, 2-1, before a crowd of about 25,000 thrill-crazed fans.

The Reds rallied for the winning runs in the seventh inning when big Buck Newsom, pitching for the Tigers after a one day's rest, weakened to give two doubles and a fly.

It was Cincinnati's first world series championship since 1919 when the Reds beat Chicago White Sox.

Paul Derringer, batted out of the box in the opening game, was the winning pitcher today, as he and Newsom banged into one of the finest pitching duels the big autumn classic has ever witnessed.

Each hurler allowed seven hits, and they also finished even for the series route with two victories and one defeat.

The Detroit run was unearned, third baseman Bill Werber of the Reds coming up with the game's only misplay to let Sullivan across in the third inning.

The Tigers, with Newsom pitching magnificently, clung to their short lead until the last half of the seventh, when F. McCormick led off for the Reds with a resounding

Today's War Moves

By J. W. T. MASON
British United Press War Expert
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

Reopening the Burma Road should make no essential difference to the military situation in China. The Japanese have anticipated the possible effect by establishing air bases on the French Indo-China frontier, whence their airmen ought easily to be able to bomb Chinese sections of the Burma Road, 20 miles away.

J. W. T. Mason

The British action is a renewed gesture of sympathy for China but there is no military reason for the Japanese to consider the move as a belligerent act. The Japanese may be said to command the Burma Road from the air, and even if this were not so, shipments of munitions to China through Burma cannot be in major quantities. The war in Europe demands that most war supplies be kept there.

NOT CONSISTENT

Tokyo did not regard the previous use of the Burma supply route as a cause for war against Great Britain, even though the Japanese could not block the traffic. To change that attitude now would not be consistent with the Japanese sense of realism, since Japan's air force has just obtained a position where the Burma Road can be outflanked.

If Japan were to use the reopening of the Burma road as a reason for increasing Anglo-Japanese tension, it would indicate the existence of influences at Tokyo desiring to challenge Great Britain at the earliest moment. But next year the British will have completed all of their five new 35,000 ton battleships of the King George V class, the most powerful warships in the world, far superior to any in the Japanese navy. Several of the new British vessels may already be in service.

It is not inconceivable that these great modern fighting craft might be assigned to Singapore, if a vital emergency arose. The Japanese first line fighting fleet would scarcely seek battle in that circumstance. Japan's best battleships consist of two, 20 years old; two, 24 years old; two, 26 years old; several others, 28 or more years old.

Before the British are prepared to send a fighting fleet to the Orient, the Japanese might take the chance of battle, hoping events in Europe would so develop as to compel Great Britain to keep her entire first line strength at home. But serious hazards are attached to any such policy, including uncertainties which surely exist in Tokyo concerning the possible attitude of the United States.

2,000 READY IN ALBERTA FOR TRAINING

Special Trains, Busses To Carry Draftees To Red Deer, Camrose

Two thousand Alberta recruits called under the National War Services Act for a one-month training period will go to camps at Red Deer and Camrose Wednesday, it was reported here Tuesday.

Special trains will leave Edmonton and Calgary to carry the troops to their designated camps while the bus companies have greatly augmented their service from all country points to take care of the traffic accruing from the military service call.

LEAVE IN MORNING

A special train will leave the C.N.R. station here at 8 a.m. Wednesday with troops from the city and district going to the Camrose camp. A special train out of Calgary will be operated on the C.P.R. line with recruits from that city and southern Alberta going to Red Deer.

Recruits from the Peace River electoral division to be trained at Grande Prairie will not go to camp until October 11, and only 100 of the original 250 destined for this camp are being called for the first training period.

The camp at Red Deer is under command of Col. F. C. Jamieson, V.D.; K.C., that at Camrose under command of Col. E. R. Knight and the Grande Prairie camp under Maj. L. Younger.

On Tuesday J. P. McIsaac, K.C., divisional registrar, National War Services Board, announced that postponements had been granted to Normal School students until the call for the summer camps is issued.

SEEK POSTPONEMENT

Throughout the morning the board was busy dealing with belated applications for postponement of service with the first draft. There was a long line up at the court house seeking relief from service with the first draft, and it was necessary for the board to hold an afternoon session to deal with them.

Give War Courses

WINNIPEG, Oct. 8.—War-service courses in first aid, motor mechanics and wartime welfare activities will be offered women students at the University of Manitoba, Sidney E. Smith, president, announced Monday.

ITALY TELLS U.S. TO KEEP OUT OR FIGHT

ROME, Oct. 8 — Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia declared today that Germany, Italy and Japan are ready to go to war with the United States if Washington should reject the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis' mutual "living space" offers and prefer instead to "throw down the gauntlet."

Berlin Is Blasted In Long Raid

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG, JR.
United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin

BERLIN, Oct. 8—Seven waves of British planes, flying so low that they could be seen plainly, raided Berlin for nearly five hours early today, dropping high explosive and incendiary bombs in their most violent attack of the war.

They flew so low they could be seen plainly; they lighted their targets with parachute flares.

It was admitted that warehouses and railroads had been hit here, and that there had been casualties. United Press correspondents saw numerous fires burning on the northern horizon of the city.

At one time United Press correspondents saw five fires burning and of these two lit the sky for more than two hours.

Fire engines dashed through the streets at intervals throughout the raid.

A Nazi communique said:

"British planes attacked the Reich capital last night. At various points they dropped explosive and incendiary bombs. Among other things two hospitals and several private houses as well as warehouses and railroads were hit. Resulting fires were quickly extinguished. Several dead and wounded must be lamented. One plane was shot down by anti-aircraft fire."

The raid lasted four hours and 45 minutes. Anti-aircraft fire was the most violent so far. The din of the guns steady firing was drowned out at times by the deep rumbling of bomb explosions. The "swishing" sound of bombs, followed at last by the crash, was heard plainly. The United Press offices were shaken by the force of the explosions.

SEARCHLIGHTS ACTIVE

The planes could be seen from the U.P. offices. One was caught in the cross-beams of more than 20 searchlights. Like a silver moth it twisted and turned trying to escape. Guns firing tracer bullets blazed at it for three minutes before it dived, zoomed upward and disappeared. The searchlights succeeded in catching a second plane for a moment direct over the center of the city but it escaped and likewise disappeared.

The first British attack lasted about two hours. In the brief lulls shrapnel spattered on roofs of buildings.

Searchlights were more active than usual. At one time more than 40 beams were counted. The British planes dropped dozens of parachute flares, one of which brightly lit the central area.

100 Heavy Bombs Hit Power Plants

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Royal Air Force dropped 100 heavy bombs on three main power stations in Berlin, set fire to a freight yard at Templehof, Berlin's great airdrome, and attacked the Fokker aircraft works at Amsterdam during widespread raids last night, the air ministry announced today.

Bombing attacks also were delivered on the German naval docks at Wilhelmshaven, several airfields and freight yards, at least 10 German-occupied points on the invasion coast, and long-range gun emplacements at Cap Gris Nez, France, the communique said.

One British plane was reported missing.

The widespread attacks were carried out last night and early today in the first clear weather which had favored the offensive arm of the R.A.F. in three nights.

Radio stations throughout northwestern Germany were cut off last night, indicating alarms generally in that section. The air ministry did not specify where the R.A.F. hit, except to say communications beyond the German frontiers were bombed.

Other raiders attacked the frequently-bombed continental coast bases used by the Germans and struck at airdromes in German-occupied territories from which Nazi fliers base short-flight attacks on Great Britain.

Waves Of Nazi Planes Smash At Capital During Morning Rush Hours—City Has Longest Night Raid

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS
British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, Oct. 8—British fighters shot down several German planes over London today, the air and home security ministries said in a communique after 50 German planes had penetrated the central London defenses.

The German attackers rained bombs in streets and on buildings in a ferocious morning rush hour attack but the communique said that casualties were not numerous.

There were some fatal injuries when debris hit a passenger train and a number of persons were killed and others were injured seriously when a bomb hit two busses in a main thoroughfare.

The ministries said that British fighters either shot down the attackers or drove them off.

The raid caught the city when its streets were jammed with men and women going to work. Air raid sirens had been ignored, as it was thought the Germans were merely making their usual morning reconnaissance.

As the bombs started crashing, people dived for shelters or dropped prone beside walls, seeking whatever cover they could find.

Then bombs began striking buildings and crashing in the streets among pedestrians and traffic.

CROWDED BUS HIT

One bomb struck a bus crowded with passengers.

Shutters were torn from shops for use as stretchers to remove the wounded. It was feared that all those on the top deck had been killed. Several bodies were removed from the lower deck in addition to numerous wounded.

The wounded were put on the LONDON, Oct. 8. — Three German planes were shot down over Britain today during raids in which bombs were dropped indiscriminately in Kent and Sussex, as well as on London, the Air Ministry announced.

Session Rumor Is Discounted

Rumors of a December session of the Alberta legislature, current around the legislative buildings, were discounted Tuesday by government officials who stated that there was no likelihood of the session being called before February 6. This is the date to which the legislature's adjournment has been prorogued by order-in-council.

Supply Gate To China Unlocked By British Act

Prime Minister Says Japan Has Broken Agreement To Reach Understanding With China By Joining Axis Powers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—The British ambassador, Lord Lothian, says that he has cancelled plans to fly to London because the British foreign office has advised him that a crisis seemed imminent in the far east.

Says Lord Lothian: "They think there may be a general crisis in the far east. Under those circumstances they told me I'd better stay on the job."

LONDON, Oct. 8—Prime Minister Churchill told parliament today that the Burma road will reopen on schedule Oct. 17.

Japan, he said, could hope for no help from her new allies so long as the fleets of the United States and Great Britain are in existence.

As he spoke the sound of anti-aircraft fire came faintly from the distance.

Mr. Churchill explained that the step taken to enable Japan to compose her differences with China had no further meaning now that Japan, instead, had entered into a triple alliance with Germany and Italy.

This alliance he called a revival of the anti-Comintern pact.

His review of the war was made with quiet fervor which never faltered despite guns and sirens often loudly interrupting.

Tokyo Notified Of British Decision

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—Great Britain has formally notified Japan she has decided not to renew the Anglo-Japanese agreement by which she undertook to close the Burma road to war supplies for China until Oct. 17, the Japanese foreign office announced today.

A foreign office communique said:

Sir Robert Craigie, British ambassador, called on Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka this morning.

"Sir Robert, under instructions of his government, informed Matusoka that the British government did not see their way clear to renew the British-Japanese agreement concerning closure of the Burma road when it expires Oct. 17."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—A broadcast from Tokyo by Domei Japanese news agency quoted the authoritative Japan Times as describing Britain's decision as "an unmistakable indication that she is taking up with the United States a common front against this country."

Domei said it was not believed the Burma road decision would affect Britain's ban on the transportation of military supplies into China through Hong Kong.

Awarded D.F.C.

CAIRO, Oct. 8.—Acting Flight Lieut. William Weir Campbell of Revelstoke, B.C., was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for the destruction of two Italian submarines shortly after Italy entered the war, it was disclosed here Monday.

INVASION IS STILL DANGER PREMIER SAYS

But the Nazi Blitzkrieg Against Britain Has Failed Notably

By FREDERICK KUH
British United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Oct. 8—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, radiating confidence, told the House of Commons today that Germany had massed 1,200,000 men and transports for 500,000 men to attempt an invasion of the British Isles, but that Great Britain with the aid "of the new world" was striking back more powerfully than ever against the axis war machine.

Promising to "regain the initiative," Churchill gave a blow-by-blow story of recent war developments, expressed belief that the German air force had failed in its objective of blasting Britain to destruction and said that "a lot of things are going to happen" to Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

1—Great Britain must reopen the Burma road over which China receives military supplies after October 17th because of the new German-Italo-Japanese alliance, which he said was directed primarily against the United States and Russia and presumably contained secret clauses which would make it favorable to Japan.

2—The danger of invasion persists and Germany has massed 80

CAMP CENTRES ARE PREPARED FOR TRAINEES

Young Canadians Report Tomorrow For Month's Military Training

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—Today is the last day in mufti for 29,750 young Canadians due to report for military training at 39 training centres Wednesday.

The centres are all ready, except for a few finishing touches to the drill halls here and there, Defence Minister J. L. Ralston announced Monday.

Training will start off full blast Thursday after a Wednesday spent in the formalities of signing on the new recruits, issuing their khaki uniforms and equipment and allotting sleeping places.

GOES SMOOTHLY

"Everything is going smoothly and no news is good news for us," said Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, associate deputy minister of national war services, one of the two men at the head of the organization responsible for calling up the recruits under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

As far as these 29,750 men from the age groups of 21 and 22 and 23—mostly 21—are concerned the work of the Department of National War Services ends when they check in at the training centres. From then on they are the responsibility of the Department of National Defence. As members of the Non-Permanent Active Militia they will be part of Canada's expanding military organization.

The department of national war services, however, will soon be busy preparing another list of 29,750 selections for the second training course which will open sometime in November, probably Nov. 22 and complete the 30-day training period just before Christmas.

PLAN FLEXIBLE

Defence Minister Ralston disclosed Monday constant attention is being and will be given to the suitability of the 30-day training period to Canada's general military, labor and equipment situation.

For the present there is no thought of changing it but all plans must be flexible and at some time it might be desirable to train fewer men for a greater length of time.

For training purposes the new recruits will probably use the Lee-Enfield rifles recently purchased from United States. These weapons, 80,000 of which were obtained, will be the training weapons of the non-permanent active militia generally, Col. Ralston said.

ARMY TRAINING HEALTH ASSET DOCTOR STATES

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—Already the value of compulsory military training as a means of generally improving Canadians' health by reason of the medical examination it entails, has become apparent, Dr. H. H. Christie said Monday night.

"This wholesale examination of nearly 500,000 men in 12 months will repay the country in both money and happiness," the supervisor of medical services in the national war services department said.

He told of the first example of benefit from the military medical examination which had come to his attention — the case of a young Ottawan.

The youth was in unfit physical condition to join the 29,750 young men who will report Wednesday at various militia training centres throughout Canada. Two dull spots on his lungs, dating from a serious case of pneumonia two years ago, were responsible.

He looked and felt perfectly healthy and, said Dr. Christie, it seemed unlikely he would have taken an examination if not compelled to when called for service.

Now the young man will be given a thorough examination free by the Canadian Tuberculosis Association and if found in need of extra care because of active tuberculosis he will receive treatment in a sanatorium. If not he will receive complete advice on how to take care of himself so there will be no development of the trouble.

Strike Vote Will Be Taken In Plant Of General Motors

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 8.—A strike vote of some 3,000 employees of the General Motors plant here has been called for tonight. The decision was made last night at a meeting of 1,500 members of the local union of the United Automobile Workers of America. The present walkout affects only domestic production in the plant but the threatened strike would tie up the whole plant which is engaged in larges-cale production of war equipment.

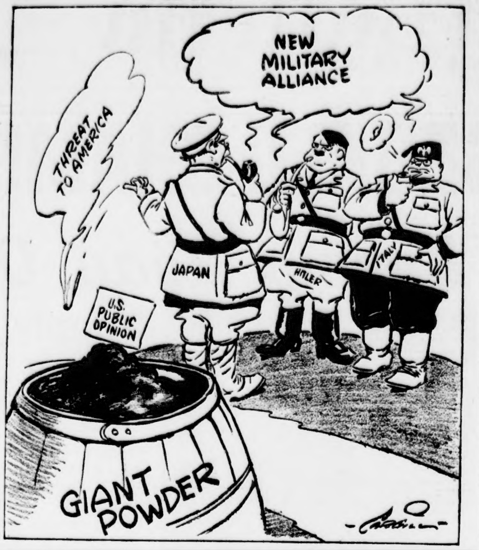
Australian Wheat Acreage Is Down

MELBOURNE, Oct. 8.—A preliminary estimate of 1940-41 Australian wheat acreage indicated a decrease of 5.3 per cent from last season in the area sown.

The new seeded area is estimated at 12,569,000 acres, a decline of 707,000 acres, lowest for the last five years.

Last season's yield was 210,160,000 bushels compared with a 10-year average of 177,726,000. The yield of 15.83 bushels an acre compared with an average yield of 12.54 bushels an acre.

"Three Lights From A Match"



OTTAWA SAYS HOUSE DEBATE IS POSSIBLE

Authorities On Procedure See Possibility Holding Up Adjournment

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—Authorities on procedure expressed the opinion Monday night that debate may take place when parliament meets next Nov. 5 although the only government business to be presented will be a motion to adjourn again, subject to emergency call, until a date in January.

If the motion is ruled to be debatable it would be possible for members to precipate a full dress discussion of Canada's war effort.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, when he announced last week the government's intention to move a second adjournment when parliament meets Nov. 5 said the motion would not be debatable and that only a few minutes would be required for the formality.

OPEN THE DEBATE

But the standing orders governing the House of Commons, while ruling that a motion to adjourn is not debatable, define anmong debatable motions those which are required for "the fixing of its (House of Commons) sitting days or the times of its meeting or adjournment."

When the House adjourned Aug 7 to meet again Nov. 5, the motion to adjourn was preceded by a motion made Aug. 3 by Mr. King, providing that during the period of adjournment, members could be recalled on notice from Mr. Speaker, if circumstances arose making it desirable that parliament should be in session.

The motion was debated and was carried "on division" with the dissenting voice coming from Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata).

It is understood that a similar motion will be necessary Nov. 5, since it is the intention of the government that parliament remain adjourned until a certain date in January, subject always to emergency call on short notice.

When the adjournment motion was made last Aug. 3 Conservative leader Hanson and M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar) speaking for his party, agreed, the latter after making certain that the Nov. 5 meeting would be mandatory.

HANSON AGREES

Mr. Hanson has agreed with the government's proposal to again adjourn, but Mr. Coldwell was quoted as opposing it, declaring the move to be a negation of parliamentary rights.

No plans are being made for a prolonged session, however. The normal sessional staff members have been advised that they will not be required Nov. 5 in either the house or the senate.

Senate and house whips will be asked to make sure that enough of their members are here to form a quorum—20 in the house and 15 in the senate. These can be gathered from those ordinarily resident in Ottawa or within a few hours' travel from the capital.

There is nothing to prevent every member of both houses coming here for the meeting. However, they will not receive expenses for the trip since the regular session which opened May 16 is still officially proceeding, and members get expenses only for one round trip to Ottawa for each session.

Bomb Splinters

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 8—Bomb splinters from the battle of Britain:

Home-made shelters are all right in their place but there is one London businessman who has given them up as a bad job. He slept nightly under the dining room table, the side-board on one side and the wall on the other forming, he believed, good protection against the collapse of his house. The protection was fine but one night an explosion nearby wakened the businessman so suddenly he jumped up quickly, whacked his head on the underside of the table and knocked himself out.

The house on Gower Street where Charles Darwin lived from 1839 to 1842 was damaged by a bomb in a recent night raid. It was occupied at the time of the bombing by the Indian Students' Hostel.

Birmingham hopes to raise £5,000,000 ($22,250,000) enough money for 250 bombers, during war weapons week, Oct. 14-19.

The radio wasn't playing "There'll Always Be An England" when an East-End family emerged from their bomb-damaged home, but it was still going, although much of the house was in ruins. An announcer was broadcasting "Hints to Gardeners."

Mrs. Clarissa Stokes of Ramsgate celebrated her 102nd birthday by walking two miles through the streets of her native town looking at some of the places that were bombed. "It will take more than the Germans to make me leave my home," she said.

Twelve demolition workers used the bomb crater in the ruins where they were working as a shelter during a raid over London. Another bomb fell 10 yards away but only two were injured.

Explosion of a time bomb buried a man, his wife and their son in a shelter. They were trapped for nearly an hour until their dog, barking and pawing the debris, attracted rescue workers who dug them out uninjured.

During a recent scare when church bells were rung in certain parts of the country a man and his wife were roused from their slumber. "Gas!" said the husband as he hustled his wife into her mask and down to the shelter. There they sat in extreme discomfort, puffing and blowing, waiting for something to happen. Almost 30 minutes later, after he had done some hard thinking, the husband remarked in a muffled voice: "Wait a minute—I believe I'm wrong. Bells were for invasion, it's rattles for gas."

22 Italian Subs Are Destroyed By Navy During War

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 8—Almost one-quarter of Italy's submarine strength has been sunk since June 11, when Italy entered the war, British naval sources said Monday night.

Twenty-two Italian submersibles have been accounted for. In 1939 Italy was officially listed as having 104. There is no way of knowing how many were put into service since

GERMAN-RUSS FRICTION MAY BE DISCLOSED

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—Already buoyed by official optimism over progress of the battle of Britain, Britons can find fresh encouragement in news of Balkan developments.

Substantial forces of German troops—and possibly Italian also—have been sent into Rumania, for "precautionary" purposes, according to Berlin. Protection of Rumanian oil resources from possible sabotage by British agents is the hinted motive. However, the nature of the force, reported in some quarters to include all arms, suggests uncertainty over Russia's future role may be the real explanation.

Certainly Russia alone, not Britain, could threaten Rumania's shrivelled frontiers. German commitments to protect those frontiers, fixed by Berlin fiat, were announced as the reason for the march into that troubled country.

OIL DISCUSSED

Coming close after the Hitler-Mussolini meeting, the Rumanian developments indicate that insuring an adequate winter flow of Rumanian oil for the German and Italian war machines, was a prime matter discussed in Brenner Pass. Rising British confidence of turning the tables on Germany rests in part on the expectation the Nazis eventually will run short of oil.

Any fresh disorder in Rumania this winter could be a serious matter for the axis mates, whether the disorder arose from internal or external pressure. With the Danube frozen and Rumania's rail lines inadequate, the task of maintaining a sufficient oil flow will be difficult in any case. It was troublesome for Germany last winter before the terrific drain of active warfare in the west began to sap reserves.

London officials recently estimated the air attack on Britain had already consumed all aviation gasoline stocks captured by the Germans in continental victories. They report Nazi aircraft shot down show evidence of a shortage of high test fuel. Some planes were said to be equipped to take off and land on high test but to fly on lower grade gasoline.

BALKAN SITUATION

That helps explain the Balkan developments and underscores the German march into Rumania to protect that vital war-making resource from either sabotage or possible Russian anti-axis manoeuvring.

Moscow's reaction to the new German-Italian-Japanese pact has not been all its authors could desire. For whatever reason, the rumored trip to Moscow by the Nazi foreign minister, Ribbentrop, to enlarge the scope of that tripartite gesture has not yet come off. It may have been deferred or abandoned.

The sending of a completely equipped Nazi army to Rumania to guard that country from an invasion that could only come from Russia suggests increasing friction, not friendship, between Moscow and the axis.

Furness Dead

VICHY, France, Oct. 8.—Viscount Furness, 56, British shipbuilder and iron and coal magnate, died of pneumonia yesterday at Cap Ferrat.

His son, Anthony, presumably is his heir. An older son, Christopher, an officer in the Welsh Guards, was reported missing, believed dead, in Flanders last May.

LONDON SHOWS SMALL SIGNS OF AIR RAIDS

Little Indication Of Shambles In Metropolis—Could Take Months Of It

By REUEL S. MOORE
British United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Oct. 8.—London looks much the same today as it did four months ago. I had expected to find it in ruins upon my return from a four-month assignment to Dublin. Instead, I found one familiar locality after another unscathed; street after street unmarked.

The worst damage, as I had expected, was in the East End, where the poorer classes live near important military objectives on the waterfront.

Yet the damage in the East End seemed a minute fraction of all London. It seemed to me that the city could absorb months and even years of this sort of beating and still hold up.

GIVING IT BACK

My cabbie, who knows practically every bomb crater in London, agreed.

"And the public will last that long too if the newspapers and radio keep telling them we are giving it back hard as we're getting it," he said.

The only evidence I saw of genuine war suffering was in the subway stations.

Crossing from Wales to England I had not seen a single instance of bomb destruction, but in these dank, gloomy tube stations I realized what misery they have caused.

Homeless persons languished in every corner. Perspiration was dripping from every part of my body. Most of them had fashioned crude fans and were getting a measure of relief. Some had taken off their shoes. A few played cards, some read, others sang. Many talked, others were silent or sleeping. A few laughed. More looked unhappy and distressed. All looked tired.

SLEPT IN ROOM

Leaving the station, I took a taxi to my hotel. The hotel porter said a third of the guests were sleeping in the basement, but I would do better to remain in my room. I took his advice. I heard a few anti-aircraft bursts, and then dropped off to sleep. The all clear siren awakened me, but only for a moment. The next morning I learned I had slept through another alarm.

Determined to see the worst, I headed for the East End. In one place there were about 20 houses destroyed. Broken furniture, old shoes and clothes, plumbing and timber lay mixed with the rubble, and in the middle of it all, I found a man feeding fish heads to some cats.

He was Frank Squires, a member of the national air raid precautions for animals.

"I bought about six pounds of fish heads and tails from a wholesale fish shop for sixpence at my own expense," he told me. "I have a regular beat, which takes me a half hour to cover. There are lots of cats to feed. I never see dogs, but cats recognize their smashed 'omes, and stay around. At one place, about 15 hungry cats eat a pound and a half of fish."

Minister States Copper Embargo Will Close Mines

VICTORIA, Oct. 8—An embargo on Canadian copper shipments to Japan would shut down two of British Columbia's mine operations employing about 1,800 men and would not necessarily prevent Japan from getting its supply of the metal, Hon. W. J. Asselstine, British Columbia minister of mines said Monday.

He said his statement was based on investigations conducted by the provincial government in collaboration with federal authorities. The investigators were informed that if Japan were cut off from Canadian supplies she could get copper from Chile.

Mr. Asselstine said G. C. Bateman, federal metal controller, had been unsuccessful in efforts to obtain another market for British Columbia's copper output, which last year amounted to 35,000 tons. About half was shipped in concentrate form to Japan and the balance to the United States for refining and re-export.

DOMINION HAS MATERIAL FOR FIFTH COLUMN

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—There are between 50,000 and 100,000 "potential fifth columnists" in Canada, and about 1,000,000 in the United States, Detective Sergeant T. G. Scrogg, who co-ordinates counter-espionage activities for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said in an address here Monday night.

Scrogg, speaking before the Ottawa Junior Board of Trade said the fifth column is the "backbone of the Nazi foreign effort." He defined its members as "persons in this country . . . willing to do something for a foreign country with which we are at war."

"Just because there hasn't been a piece of sabotage or a bomb dropped in this country, doesn't mean it isn't going to happen," he said.

BRITISH GUNS SHELL GERMAN BASES FRANCE

DOVER, Eng., Oct. 8—British long range guns shelled the French coast near Boulogne today. The shells could be seen exploding on the land at intervals. The target appeared to be a few miles beyond the French coast line.

Columns of smoke and debris rose into the air as the shells exploded. A number of salvos were fired before the shelling ceased.

The Boulogne area was the scene of mysterious activity during the night when a German plane laid a smoke screen along the shore and trawlers and drifters then put out to the southwest, hugging the coast.

Laurier's Nephew Ontario Minister

TORONTO, Oct. 8—Robert Laurier, Ottawa lawyer and nephew of Sir Wilfred Laurier, was sworn in as Ontario minister of mines late Monday. He succeeds Hon. Paul Leduc who relinquished the cabinet post to become registrar of the supreme court of Canada.

FIFTEEN SHIPS SUNK BY NAZIS IN ONE WEEK

Loss Exceeds the Average Weekly Destruction Of 53,000 Tons

LONDON, Oct. 8—Fifteen merchant ships totalling 72,337 tons, were sunk by Germans during the week ended Sept. 30, the admiralty announced today.

Of this total, it said, Britain lost 10 ships, comprising 55,927 tons; the allied powers lost four, totalling 12,119 tons; and neutral powers lost one, of 4,291 tons.

Revised admiralty figures showed that in the previous week—worst of the war to date for British shipping—the merchant fleet lost 20 vessels totalling 134,975 tons.

Commenting on merchant shipping losses in general, naval circles said:

"Of course the navy is not, and never has been, large enough to give us complete security all over the world. It is partly a matter of luck."

NO SHIP UNDER CANADA CONVOY HAS BEEN LOST

British United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—Deputy Air Minister James S. Duncan said Monday that Canada's aerial war effort is proceeding at a pace well beyond the most optimistic expectations.

Duncan told a joint meeting of service clubs that "at this moment, we have more men overseas, more men on home defence, more men in training, more schools in operation, more airdromes constructed and more buildings ready for occupation than were completed in our original plans."

"In other words," he added, "we have been able in every way to increase our contribution to the common cause."

Duncan said that apart from the air training plan—the Royal Canadian Air Force, in co-operation with the Royal Canadian Navy—is doing "another big job"—in carrying out its defence of the east and west coasts.

"Since the war started," he said, "great convoys have been sailing from our eastern ports at the rate of two a week—more than 3,000 ships with a tonnage of over 17 millions, have already left these shores—and I am proud to say that not one of these ships has been lost while under Canadian protection on this side of the Atlantic."

More Than Million War Certificates Issued Canadians

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—More than 1,000,000 individual war savings certificates have been issued to Canadians, the national war savings committee announced Monday night.

Total number of war savings certificates now issued is 1,042,262, the committee said. During last week a new record for any single day was set when 29,964 individual applications were received.

The war savings "smash Hitler" campaign is now under way across Canada to enlist 2,000,000 regular "war savers." Reports from the nine provincial chairmen indicate a favorable response, particularly among school children, the committee said.

U.S.-RUSSIAN TALKS RESUME AFTER LAPSE

Soviets May Suspect Axis-Jap Alliance—Navy Heads Confer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—American-Russian diplomatic talks were resumed here unexpectedly last night after a lapse of two months and resulted in new speculation that Russia may not like the Japanese - German - Italian alliance.

Constantine Oumansky, Soviet ambassador, called at the state department and conferred with Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state. The only comment available at the department was that it was a resumption of the talks begun last summer.

An indication that Russia and Great Britain might also be seeking friendlier relations was a conference last week in London between Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky and R. A. Butler, British foreign undersecretary.

Admiral James O. Richardson, commander of the United States fleet, flew into Washington from the west coast yesterday and plunged immediately into conferences with Secretary Frank Knox and other high navy officials regarding the troubled situation in the Pacific.

Sitting in on the conference was Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, retired, former commander of the Asiatic fleet, who has been advocating increased economic pressure on Japan, more aid to China, larger American forces in the Philippines and other measures to reverse "Japan's foreign policy."

Unofficially, there was some conjecturing as to whether the navy might be planning the use it would make of the strongly fortified British naval base at Singapore in the event Britain makes it available to United States.

French Planes Shot Down By Italians

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Headquarters of General De Gaulle, leader of French forces fighting with Britain, announced last night that eight French pilots had been shot down enroute from North Africa to join the British at Gibraltar, but that "large numbers" had reached the British fortress "despite heavy odds."

REDS CAPTURE SEVENTH GAME TO TAKE TITLE

double against the left field wall. He scored as Jim Ripple hit the first pitch against the right field bleacher screen for another two-ply shot.

FLY SCORES RIPPLE

Jimmy Wilson, who had singled in his first two trips, laid down a neat sacrifice to send Ripple to third, and Myers plated him with a long fly to centre.

Charley Gehringer led off the Tiger eighth with a single to right, but that was the final Detroit gesture, for Derringer tightened the clamps and got the next six in order, including pinch-hitter Earl Averill who grounded for the final out.

Newsom back in there after his one-day rest, pitched superbly except for the fatal seventh. He fanned six of the Reds, and walked only one—an intentional pass to big Ernie Lombardi when "Schnozzle" went in as a pinch hitter for Joost, with Ripple on third in the seventh.

MADE HITS COUNT

The seventh was the only frame in which the Reds could get more than one hit, but they made them count.

The Tigers, too, found Derringer tough in the pinches, for they tacked hits together only once, getting a pair in the third when they came up with their lone tally.

FIRST INNING

TIGERS.—Bartell lined the first pitch directly at Myers. With the count two strikes and one ball, McCosky lifted a high fly to M. McCormick in deep centre. After looking at one ball, Gehringer lifted a fly in short left centre that looked like an almost certain hit, but Ripple came rushing in to make a great catch.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

REDS.—Werber looked at one ball, and then lined to Greenberg deep in left. M. McCormick struck out on four pitches. With the count two strikes and one ball, Goodman grounded to Bartell and was thrown out.

SECOND INNING

TIGERS.—After looking at one strike, Greenberg sent a sharp grounder which Myers was able to knock down but unable to throw in time to catch Greenberg, and it was scored as a single. York also looked at one strike, and then topped the ball toward third base, Werber rushing in for a gloved-hand pick-up and throwing to first just in time to nip the runner in a spectacular play. Campbell grounded to Derringer, who wheeled and saw Greenberg streaking for third, and ran toward him setting up a trap, in which Greenberg was run down, Derringer to Myers to Werber to Joost, Campbell going to second. Higgins was thrown out, Joost to F. McCormick.

REDS.—F. McCormick grounded to Higgins on the grass in front of third and was thrown out. Ripple, swinging hard, struck out on five pitches. Wilson hit the first pitch on the ground into left field for a single. Wilson stole second, getting half way there before Newsom's pitch reached the catcher. After looking at two balls, Joost grounded out, Gehringer to York.

THIRD INNING

TIGERS.—Sullivan sent a grounder along the first base line and beat F. McCormick's throw to Derringer for a single. Newsom, after looking at one strike, laid down a sacrifice bunt, F. McCormick to Joost, who covered first. With a one and one count, Bartell raised a high pop fly to Joost on the base path near second. McCosky walked on five pitches.

With the count one and one, Gehringer sent a sharp grounder to Werber who stopped the ball but had to pick it up, and threw wild to first, the ball getting past F. McCormick and Sullivan coming home before F. McCormick could throw to Wilson. The play was scored as a base hit and an error for Werber.

Greenberg got the count to three and two, and then fanned on a high one inside.

REDS.—With the count one and one, Myers looped a single into short left. Derringer, attempting to bunt on the first pitch, popped directly into Newsom's glove, and Myers held first. Werber knocked the first pitch straight at Higgins, who threw to Gehringer, forcing Myers at second. M. McCormick worked the count to two and two, and then struck out.

FOURTH INNING

TIGERS—With the count one and one, York lifted a pop foul to Wilson in front of the Tigers' dugout. After looking at two balls, Campbell raised a high fly to Goodman. Higgins hit a hot grounder that Werber deflected against the railing in front of the left field stands and had to run down, Higgins getting a double before the ball could be retrieved. Sullivan was walked intentionally. Newsom hit a grounder that struck Higgins in the stomach as he was running toward third, making an automatic out, with Newsom getting credit for a single and Myers a putout.

REDS—With the count two and two, Goodman struck out. F. McCormick looked at one ball and then raised a high fly to McCosky in left centre. After taking one strike, Ripple grounded out to York, unassisted.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

TIGERS—Bartell lined the first pitch to M. McCormick who took it without moving. McCosky looked at one strike, and then flied to Goodman in right field. With the count one strike and two balls, Gehringer lifted a pop fly to Myers on the base path between second and third.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

REDS—With the count one strike and two balls, Wilson lined a single into right centre. Al Benton, a right hander, warmed up in the Tigers' bull pen. With the count two strikes and one ball against him Joost grounded with a double play, Gehringer to Bartell to York. On the first pitch, Myers raised a long fly to Campbell in right centre.

SIXTH INNING

TIGERS—Greenberg looked over one ball, and then drove a hard single into left centre. After looking at one ball, York lifted a high pop to Joost near second base. Campbell looked at two balls, fouled off three pitches, and finally walked. Myers came over back of second to make a fancy stop of Higgins' grounder and stepped on second, forcing Campbell, but Higgins beat his throw to first, and Greenberg reached third unmolested. F. McCormick, crouching on his knees, stopped Sullivan's grounder and walked to first for the putout.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

REDS—Derringer took one strike, and then raised a high fly to Campbell. Werber looked at one strike, and then popped to Bartell in front of second base. With the count one and one, M. McCormick hit a clean double into right centre. Goodman lined the first pitch at McCosky, who started in and then backed up to make the catch.

SEVENTH INNING

TIGERS—Newsom took a strike, and then raised a short fly to right field which Joost took on an easy run. Bartell lined the first pitch to Werber. With the count one and one, McCosky lifted a fly to M. McCormick in deep centre.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

REDS—F. McCormick drove the first pitch on one bounce against the fence in left field, 380 feet from home plate, for a double. Ripple picked out the first pitch and slammed it against the screen in front of the bleachers in right field for two bases and brought F. McCormick in with the tying run. Fans threw cushions and paper into the field and Newsom huddled with his infielders while the playing field was getting cleared.

Both Benton and Tommy Bridges began warming up in Detroit's bull pen.

Wilson took a strike, and then sacrificed Ripple to third, Higgins to York. Ernie Lombardi, the Reds' injured catcher and a right handed hitter, batted for Joost.

Manager Del Baker of the Tigers came out of the dugout and ordered an intentional walk for Lombardi. Linus Frey, who had been kept out of action by a broken toe, ran for Lombardi.

Myers bunted foul on the first pitch, waited out three wide balls, and then lifted a high fly which McCosky took against the centre field wall, Ripple scoring after the catch and Frey holding first. Sullivan made a snap throw to York and Frey slid back into first grabbing the bag with his hand in a flurry of dust. After looking at two strikes and one ball, Derringer sent a grounder to Higgins who threw to Gehringer forcing Frey at second.

EIGHTH INNING

TIGERS—Frey went to second base for the Reds. With the count one and one, Gehringer knocked a ground single into right field. Greenberg fouled off the first pitch, and then lined directly at Myers, but Gehringer scrambled back to first to prevent a double play. On the first pitch, York lifted a high fly which M. McCormick took after a run in right centre. Campbell looked at a ball, fouled off one strike and was fooled on another, and then hit a high fly to Goodman in right field.

REDS—Werber fouled off one strike, swung futilely at another and then was called out on a third pitch across the outside corner. M. McCormick laid down a drag bunt along the third base line on the first pitch and Higgins, running in and trying to field the ball with his bare hand, was unable to pick it up and it was a single. Goodman, with a count of two and two, struck out. With the count one strike and three balls, F. McCormick raised a high pop to Bartell near second base.

NINTH INNING

TIGERS—Bucky Walters and Joe Beggs went to work in the Reds' bull pen before Derringer ever got to the mound. On the first pitch, Higgins grounded out, Werber to F. McCormick. F. McCormick took Sullivan's grounder and beat him to the bag. Earl Averill, a left-handed batter, pinch hit for Newsom. Averill grounded out, Frey to F. McCormick.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NAVY RECEIVES SECOND LOT OF U.S. DESTROYERS

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Oct. 8.—Without ceremony or formality, the Royal Navy today took over two more divisions of United States destroyers turned over to Britain in exchange for naval and air bases in British possessions in the western hemisphere.

A naval band led the way as British officers and ratings paraded to the pier at which the "over-age" destroyers were tied up. That had been vacated previously by the United States sailors who had brought them to this port. High ranking officers stood by as they marched aboard.

A few minutes later the white ensign fluttered at their sterns. The United States flags had been taken down an hour before.

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Oct. 8.—A Dutch steamer may become the birthplace of the heir to the Netherlands throne.

A dispatch from British United Press correspondent James Crandall says that workmen have completed renovations to one entire section of the ship, which has been anchored in an eastern Canada port for several months. It is being prepared for Crown Princess Juliana of Holland.

Princess Juliana is said to have insisted that her expected baby be born on Dutch territory, so a Netherlands steamship has been picked for the purpose. A small hospital has been fitted on board and every medical convenience provided for the Royal birth which is expected before Christmas.

MANY WOMEN TO BE NEEDED FOR WAR DUTY

Extension Of Plants and Army Demands Create Labor Shortage

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 8.—With one big war plant in Ontario reported today to be training girls for welding jobs, the looming shortage of Canadian manpower raised the prospect that considerable numbers of women will be required for war production work in the near future.

Already many plants have taken on women workers and the number will be increased steadily.

Unofficial estimates based upon the new plants and plant extension already authorized by the department of munitions and supply indicated that at least 140,000 new jobs are in the making on the industrial front of the Canadian war effort. A rough breakdown of this figure gives 110,000 prospective new jobs in actual war production, 30,000 in subsidiary industries.

START PRODUCTION

The government's plant extension program now stands at $235,000,000. Some big munitions factories have started production, and the full sweep of this program will be reached early next summer. How much further the government will go in building new plants, such as the large chemical plant in the Winnipeg area and the big aircraft factory at Vancouver, is not known.

But the labor shortage is one factor indicating that the margin of productive resources in this country is growing shorter.

Unofficial calculations are now possible for the size of Canada's armed forces at peak numbers required for present commitments. The figures work out to about 400,000 for the army, navy and air force at full strength some time next year. The air force, now at 36,000 strength will grow to at least 70,000. The navy, now at 11,000, will increase to at least 25,000 when the shipbuilding program has delivered its present contracts.

The army now comprises 160,000 C.A.S.F., 112,000 N.P.A.M., and 30,000 home defence trainees, with a prospective total of 300,000 partially trained home defence trainees by the end of 1941. The active service force, not including non-permanent trainees, will total about 300,000 men fully trained in time, according to reliable estimates.

FOUR DIVISIONS

The army consists of four full divisions, numerous ancillary troops and nine battalions for a fifth division, at the present time. Additional forces in sight include a Pacific Coast defence force and a full armored division, the latter growing out of the new armored brigade now in training.

Based on these calculations there is room for enlistment for active service of 140,000 more men, in reinforcements or in new formations. There is no immediate call for these men. All non-permanent categories are considered still as industrial workers, since they carry on civilian jobs despite training.

The labor reserve existing in Canada at present is difficult to estimate. Latest relief figures, for last June, reported 94,000 fully employable men on relief. This figure is probably down to 75,000 now. But in the next 12 months, with a maximum requirement of 140,000 men for the armed forces, and 140,000 new workers needed for war industries, the only answer is women for war industry, to take new jobs and to replace men in some instances.

crack divisions in northern France, with enough ships to "throw half a million onto the salt water" around Britain—"or into it!" But Britain's home guard now numbers 1,700,000 men and the navy is receiving "Great reinforcements" apart from the trade for 50 United States destroyers.

3—Germany has greatly increased her resources by conquests but "the resources of the new world are becoming increasingly available" to Britain. If it were not for these new world resources, he said, "it would be a long time before we would be able to do much more than hold our own."

4—The Royal Air Force is getting stronger and is steadily increasing the destructiveness of its aerial bombardment against the German war machine's most vital points, while the Germans are feeling the weakening effects of constant and heavy use of their air force for bombardment of Britain.

5—A total of 8,500 Britons have been killed and 13,000 wounded during the intensive German aerial offensive against Britain (up to Saturday) but the rate of casualties is decreasing at present and is much lower than the pre-war estimates of the Nazis.

NO REPRISALS

6—The British people are crying: "We can take it!" and are demanding: "Give it back to them," but the R.A.F. has no time for reprisal raids and will continue to concentrate on smashing the German war machine. Churchill hinted at new methods of defence against night bombers but declined to explain them.

7—One British battleship and a heavy British cruiser suffered serious damage in the Battle of Dakar, when British and "Free French" forces vainly attempted to take over that French West African port but Britain will continue strongly to support the "Free France" movement led by Gen. Charles de Gaulle. He said Pejons responsible for letting French warships steam through the Strait of Gibraltar to participate in the Dakar battle had been disciplined.

8—Spain seems to "hang in the balance between peace and war" but Great Britain looks forward "to seeing Spain take her place as a Great Mediterranean power"—a bid to keep the Madrid government from a formal military pact with the axis powers in return for food supplies moving through the British blockade.

9—British armies of the middle east have been reinforced and the forces there, largely from Australia and New Zealand, are prepared to face any Italian offensive against the Suez Canal.

TRIPLE BLITZ

Churchill's strong attitude toward Japan and toward the new triple alliance reflected efforts to line up American and Russian support.

The Japanese made a "Bargain that appears so unfavorable to Japan that we wondered whether there are not some secret clauses" to offset the inability of Germany and Italy to aid Japan. Previously it had been reported that such secret clauses provided for Japan to get the Dutch East Indies and French Indo-China and to join the axis at some unspecified date in a "triple blitzkrieg" against the British empire.

Churchill strongly emphasized belief that Japan had been dismayed by the reaction of the United States to the "ill-balanced and strange" threats of the triple alliance.

Concluding his speech, the prime minister warned that great dangers, many misfortunes and mistakes lie ahead for Britain, but he expressed confidence that they could be overcome.

States Suspends Subsidy Program On Wheat Exports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 — The United States agriculture department today suspended its wheat export subsidy program to far eastern ports with the exception of the Philippines.

Heretofore, the department had subsidized exports of wheat and flour from the Pacific coast to Hong Kong and Chinese ports, most of which are under Japanese control.

The suspension became effective at 3 p.m. today.

Calgary Death

Shacks Burn

WELLS, B.C., Oct. 8.—Five shacks were destroyed and two others slightly damaged by fire of undetermined origin which swept through this northern interior town Monday, fanned by a high wind. The houses were small and loss was estimated at about $1,000.

British Columbia leads all other Canadian provinces in fisheries production, with Nova Scotia ranking second.

Washington Orders U.S. Citizens Home From Orient Points

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8—All United States consulates in Manchukuo, China, French Indo-China, Hong Kong and Japanese territory were reported to have been ordered by the United States state department to advise American citizens to return home as soon as possible.

It was understood that consular officials were told to advise Americans in these areas to take advantage of transportation facilities immediately because it was unknown how long they might be available.

Emphasis was said to have been placed on the desirability of early departure of all women and children and men in non-essential posts.

There are approximately 9,000 white Americans in the affected zones, plus some 2,000 Chinese-Americans and Japanese-Americans.

It was believed possible some extra ships might be diverted to facilitate the removal, as all ships now available have been booked for some time in advance.

The instructions were not announced publicly in the Orient. They were expected to be passed along quietly to American communities so as to avoid any unnecessary alarm.

TWENTY SAILORS LOST IN WRECK BRITISH TANKER

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—Ten Canadian members of the crew of the British tanker Frederick S. Fales, recently lost in the Atlantic, are unreported and presumably lost, it was learned here today from the Imperial Oil Shipping Co., Ltd.

The crew included 23 other Canadians, mostly from the Maritime provinces, who are reported saved.

Ten crew members from the United Kingdom were lost in addition to 10 Canadians.

The 10 Canadians lost are: Bayna Gammon, New Harbor, N.S.; William Hart, Forshaw Road, Dartmouth, N.S.; Gerald Scallion, Dartmouth, N.S.; Robert Hayes, Charles Beed, John Saunders, Cecil Moore, Raymond Hanson, James White, Frank Scanlon, all of Halifax.

German Airplane Will Be Exhibited

TORONTO, Oct. 8—A captured German airplane is being sent to the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, according to a cable received here Monday by the national president, from Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production. The plane will be on exhibit under auspices of the I.O.D.E. from Nova Scotia to the Yukon and proceeds from the exhibition will be devoted to buy fighting equipment for overseas.

Poles Suffer

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Oct. 8.—Poland, where "people have been murdered by the tens of thousands," will see 1,000 deaths daily this winter because of hunger and cold, Paul Super, general director of the Polish Young Men's Christian Association, said Monday in an interview.

MYSTERY MOVE OPENS DUEL OF CHANNEL GUNS

DOVER, England, Oct. 8—Great Britain's long-range southeast coast guns today shelled the French coast near Boulogne after mysterious smoke-screened Nazi movements were detected.

German guns took up the cross channel firing and explosions shook both sides of the Strait of Dover. German shells struck Dover at intervals of three minutes. Columns of smoke and debris spouted into the air on the French side, marking British hits.

The British guns opened fire after a German plane laid down a mysterious white smoke screen along the French coast across from Dover.

Soon after the plane completed its mission, several trawlers and drifters were seen to put out from the French shore and move cautiously westward along the coast.

After the British guns started shooting, two of the battery of four big German guns immediately to the east of Cap Gris Nez lighthouse went into action and two smaller guns opened fire at intervals.

"Rumania Sold At Brenner Pass" Is Express Comment

LONDON, Oct. 8.—"They sold Rumania at the Brenner Pass"—a reference to the meeting last week of Hitler and Mussolini—was the headline the Daily Express used today to tell its readers that German troops had arrived in Rumania. The Express is published by Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production.

The Express declared "So the cry will go up—bomb the Rumanian oil wells. That is a big job and one for the exerts. But if it is possible, then there is another military objective for the broad shoulders of the R.A.F."

NUMBER DEAD WHEN RAIDERS BOMB LONDON

sidewalk until ambulances arrived. A nearby hospital said that casualties in this spot alone were serious. Soldiers began to arrive to assist police, air raid precautions wardens and volunteers in removing the wounded.

It was feared that some persons were buried deep under the debris of a wrecked store nearby.

MANY ARE WOUNDED

Numerous persons were wounded or killed in other parts of London.

Thousands abandoned an idea of going to work, but many remained to act as volunteer stretcher bearers or to dig in debris for those who had been buried.

Sudden as the raid was, and precipitately as pedestrians and others were forced to dive for shelter, there was no panic.

As British fighter planes arrived over the city many of those who had taken shelter emerged to watch and cheer them as they dived for the German planes.

The German raiders, under heavy fire from anti-aircraft guns and with the fighters thrusting among them, broke formation and scattered over the city in ones and twos.

FIERCE ASSAULT

By noon there had been three daylight air raid alarms. At that hour (4 a.m. MST) heavy gunfire in eastern London told that the guns were fighting off new formations of German planes.

The rush hour raid, the first today in the daylight hours, was one of the most fierce of the war.

It was but one of a number of fierce attacks on England.

A northern England town was heavily bombed during the morning and three Messerschmidt-109 fighter planes, each carrying a single bomb, dived onto a southeast coast town and loosed their missiles.

Before 1 p.m. (5 a.m. MST) London had had its fourth raid, and the anti-aircraft barrage was in furious action.

But now British fighter planes were in the air in numbers and the Germans were finding it harder.

Their first attack had sent people all over London diving for shelter, hugging walls or dropping to the floors of their offices.

The scream of terror bombs, followed by tremendous explosions, could be heard plainly through the central area.

U.S. Shipping

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The United States shipbuilding industry had more than $500,000,000 worth of merchant ships under construction or under contract in the first nine months of 1940, shipping circles said Monday, at the end of September 194 ships totalling 1,517,190 gross tons were on the ways or on paper.

In Paris, they have been turning out artificial eyelashes to fit over the natural lashes, and each contains a tiny precious stone.

The Proper Course

Mayor Fry did the right thing when he instructed the city solicitor's department and the police department to investigate the circumstances of a few children in the city schools—there were only nine in 10,000—who refused to salute the flag and sing the National Anthem as required. It may be that nothing further than investigation will be found to be in order. Under our easy-going democratic system latitude in such matters has been allowed to holders of certain religious views, and parental creed may explain the refusals of the children to pay ceremonial respect to the national emblem and the Anthem.

Whatever the outcome, investigation was the only proper course. It would not do to overlook the incident, trifling in itself, in these tense times. The precedent might be made a cover for demonstrations of un-Canadianism, in the schools or elsewhere, from other than religious motives. Wherever residents of Canada refuse to conform to customs of citizenship at this time, they should be asked to state why they do so, and held accountable if they have no reason which the law accepts.

Why Not Bank Building Loans

At the end of August, Edmonton stood fifth among all the cities in Canada in respect to home improvement loans taken out. Only in Toronto, Montreal, Timmins and Winnipeg had more money been borrowed under the improvement scheme. The figures show that all across the Dominion these loans continue to be in strong demand, with correspondingly wide activity in the repair, remodelling and modernizing of homes. There is every prospect that what was started as a temporary scheme to relieve unemployment may become a permanent arrangement.

Since the banks have co-operated with the Government actively and successfully to institute the improvement loan scheme, they might be willing to go a step farther and supply building loans also where—as in Alberta—the mortgage companies are not willing to do so. This class of business would lie outside the banks' present field of operations. But given the additional power, and a guarantee that they would not thus be hampered by lack of funds for ordinary commercial purposes, there would seem to be no reason why the banks should not supply the service the mortgage companies are not supplying.

The way the banks are handling the improvement loans is assurance that if they undertook to supply building loans, these too would be handled in a way satisfactory to the public.

As One To Another

Signor Mussolini is to tell the Allied and neutral countries on Thursday what he would like them to think he and Herr Hitler talked about at the Brenner conference. When he has spoken all they will have to do is forget what he said and proceed to infer the subjects of discussion from the circumstances. Il Duce's speeches are not made to convey information, but—like his covenants—to promote deception.

The dictators met to confront the hard fact that their summer offensive has fallen short of the real objective. Britain was to be smashed and the war ended before winter. Well, it didn't happen, and won't. The obstinate islanders refused to be smashed, and have done so much smashing on their own account that the "short war" plan has to be cancelled and a long war accepted as inevitable. Despite all the territory they have over-run, the summer campaign has ended in defeat for the dictators. They failed to carry through the key item on their program; and failure in that leaves all their gains inconclusive, with a struggle in prospect which promises to grow harder and harder.

That is the situation the Fuehrer and Il Duce had to face at Brenner Pass. Whatever they decided to do, the start of the discussion can be surmised with a good deal of confidence. Adolf would naturally want to know what Graziani is doing camped in the middle of the Egyptian desert, using up supplies and getting nowhere. And Benito no doubt desired to be informed in return why the Nazi invasion army is still living in dug-outs along the French coast, likewise using up supplies and getting nowhere.

He Probably Wouldn't Care

Londoners would be less or more than human if they did not get satisfaction in knowing that R.A.F. bombers have been visiting Berlin regularly on recent nights and doing wide damage there to munitions factories, service plants, railway junctions and other proper objectives. Nor are they linely to be shedding tears because some of the bombs are said to have missed their targets and wrecked houses or business blocks.

It is not only that the sorely tried Londoners have a quite understandable desire to see Berliners made to take doses of "their own medicine". There is a widely expressed belief there that if German cities were hammered as London has been, popular protests would be raised which might induce the Fuehrer to veto the wanton bombing of civilians in England.

That German civilians would raise protests if they were being treated like civilians in England and Wales and Scotland is likely enough. But that their outcries would influence or intimidate Herr Hitler to call off his "total" air war is another matter. He cares little for what the "mob" says or suffers.

So long as his infatuated Nazi followers stand pat the Fuehrer can, and probably will, continue to make war without rules or mercy, whatever reciprocal hardships may come to the German people in consequence. The individual is of no account in Herr Hitler's calculations unless he is either useful or dangerous. He can spare a good many German civilians without weakening his war organism seriously; and they can't be dangerous while the gestapo and the army are with him.

The Nazi war machine will have to be smashed by direct attack. There is little room to suppose the Fuehrer would curb his outlawry just because German working people were made to suffer death, wounds and destruction of their homes in response to the outrages he is committing in Britain and has committed upon the peoples of a half-dozen other countries.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1890—50 Years Ago

E. Caverhill of East Edmonton returned Wednesday from a trip to the United States and eastern Canada.

A sample of Azof wheat, introduced by W. Stephens, East Edmonton, shows an excellent growth and early ripening quality and seems to be a better variety than Ladoga.

Messrs. Ross, Mann, Holt and Nanton of the C. and E. railway, Supt. Whyte of the C.P.R., and Mr. Lumsden of the C.P.R. left Calgary on Wednesday for Edmonton and will probably arrive today.

Track was laid on the C. and E. ten miles north of Calgary when the stage passed on Thursday of last week.

1900—40 Years Ago

Last night's train came in this morning—it's a fashion it has.

J. J. Bell is driving the Fort mail.

Ernest Grierson has resigned the management of the Alberta Stables and purchased E. Lyon's wood yard.

J. J. Mellon has assumed the management of the Royal Hotel, Strathcona.

A more unpleasant season than the present one, and a more unfavorable one for the farmer, would be hard to imagine. There was a promise of the most successful harvest the district had ever known. The ripening wheat was being harvested amid the rain which had fallen almost continuously during the spring and summer, when a fall of snow carried it down. After the snow thawed, it was found that frost had damaged the grain. More storms followed, with wind and rain for several days. Then came another fall of snow. All this week the fall of moisture has been incessant. Everything is soaked. As may be imagined, the roads are record-breakers.

Chicago: Nine aviators will on Saturday attempt a race from Chicago to New York for a prize of $10,000.

London: At the meeting of the British Association for the advancement of science, Professor Fessenden of Columbia university detailed a plan for running machinery by power derived from the sun.

1920—20 Years Ago

Ottawa: The cabinet will refer the freight rates decision back to the railway board.

Work has started on the big drainage scheme west of Daysland.

1930—10 Years Ago

London: A despatch from Jerusalem says Mount Nebo, from which Moses viewed the promised land, is for sale.

Boulogne: The bodies of 47 victims of the disaster to the R-101 were loaded aboard British destroyers, while French military bands played the dead march and 100,000 spectators stood bare-headed.

Rio de Janeiro: Faced by a revolutionary movement widespread throughout Brazil, the government is calling out army reserves.

On The Record

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

A FOOTNOTE

I should like to add a footnote to Mr. Lippmann's last provocative column, regarding the debunking of history and the effect on the American mind.

A week ago I sat before the fire in my Vermont home with four young men. They were exceptional youths, all of whom had graduated last June from an old and honored Eastern college. One had been the valedictorian of his class. Two were Phi Beta Kappas. All four had enjoyed a high scholastic record and other college honors. All are fine physical types.

Because I have come to know them pretty well, and because we are mutually interested in something very fine that they are trying to do, they spoke with more candor than youth usually accords to its elders. We spoke of their education and the effect of that education upon their lives.

* * *

There were four personal histories. Case histories of the more privileged section of American youth. Two came from well-to-do homes and previous to college, from private schools. Two came from more modest homes and the public schools. The four were all very different from each other. But they all told, with greater or less articulateness, with more or less clarity of analysis, the same story. And it was, to me, a very distressing story, and a very serious comment on American education. For they testified that what their education had done had been to break down their belief in any positive values, to weaken their faith in their country, in its history, in its traditions, and in its future; to put them, themselves, into intellectual and psychological confusion, and into an inner despair out of which they had sought refuge in various ways at various times: one through casting his lot, temporarily, in with the Young Communists, because they alone seemed to be perfectly clear in their minds where they were going"; another, and for a period, into complete skepticism and cynicism; another into the "modern liberalism, resolution - signing, peace-parade sort of thing"; another into "the only thing that seemed solid—my own egotism and self-interest.

* * *

One of them had come near to the edge of a nervous breakdown. He had left college in the midst of his course, and gone home to be pampered, on the ground that he had been "working too hard." His solicitous family had sent him to a psychiatrist. "Then one day I had it out with myself, and I knew that unless I pulled myself together, I should be in the hands of a psychiatrist forever. Somehow I managed to tell myself the truth; that I had not been overworking, but underworking; and that the real truth was that I didn't have any guts."

This was the same boy who said: "When I went to college I was full of enthusiasm, particularly interested in history and philosophy. I wanted to find out what made wheels go round in this world. I wanted to prepare myself to do something—not just make money—not just be a 'success,' but achieve something for myself, for my country, for my times. Damn it," he cried in an outburst, "I wanted to love something—something bigger than I am—I wanted to be part of something. But by my junior year I had become convinced that there wasn't anything that could be believed. Everything was relative. And I was swimming around in space. I was like the guy in that rhyme of Gillett Burgess's: 'I wish that my room had a floor. I don't so much care for a door. But this floating around without touching the ground is getting to be quite a bore'."

* * *

Another of the boys—the most articulate and thoughtful one—took it up. "We were told to maintain the critical attitude—toward history, philosophy, biography, sociology, economics We were soaked in historic relativism. I tried to maintain a 'healthy skepticism.' The trouble was that I observed, in reading history, that the people who moved this world were people animated by a passion for something. I could see that you couldn't write off faith as one of the prime molders of history, and that when there wasn't any faith, pure gangsterism and piracy broke loose. I could see that if I and my generation were going to mean anything in this world and not just be dots and specks pushed around by forces we couldn't control we had to find out what our convictions were. But meanwhile I had lost my moorings."

* * *

These were excerpts from notes I made during and immediately after the conversation. Fortunately, this particular story has a happy ending. These young men came into contact with one professor, a remarkable teacher, who bucked them up, and told them they had power in them and beauty. He opened their eyes to the real world; he taught them something about the survival values of history; he brought to them some intellectual convictions regarding character, and thus he saved their souls. A very good job he did of it, too, and the immediate response indicated that this generation is by no means lost, even though so clever as to be on the verge of limbo. I concluded that it would not take a great deal to undo much of the harm that has been

CHILD WITH "AMMONIA"

I find little Dockie's conversation more entertaining than that of many older folk. He is fertile in initiating topics. One day he said:

"There as a little girl in Bryn Mawr that had ammonia. . . ."

"Pneumonia, you mean, Dockie," I corrected.

"I don't know whether it was new ammonia or old ammonia, but she was very sick, and Daddy cured her."

Dockie could not be diverted from the point of his message by any discussion of definitions. The little girl had been ill, and she had been made well. His remark recalled the blind man's "Whereas I was blind, now I see."

Suppose we follow Dockie in our religious thinking, and stick to the essential fact of God's healing, helping power.

We confess, O Father, that our times' mood of speculation often drives our thought from the simple essentials about Thee. Give us grace to see Thee clearly as our Lord and our Redeemer. Amen.

Measuring The Family Budget

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA: One of the last strongholds of popular misinformation has fallen before the advance of science. The cost of living has been measured accurately by the expert statisticians of the federal government. This may not be exciting news on the face of it, but it is vastly more important than the casual announcement issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics seemed to make it. The cost of living, like the weather, has been an intriguing field of the amateur experts up to now. It has gone up and it has gone down. People have grumbled about it and wondered why the government has not done something about it.

But now the real experts have moved in. The price statisticians, within the walls of the old factory building on Green Island that houses the Dominion Bureau, have completed a two-year job. They have given the government an accurate measuring stick of family living costs, and they have ended a great deal of guesswork in this field. They have uncovered a vast amount of authentic information about family costs in different parts of Canada. They have furnished a guide for extensive price and trade controls created under the War Measures Act.

The base years for most index numbers issued by the Bureau of Statistics has been 1926. The new cost of living index numbers are based upon 1935-39 inclusive, and investigation of prices and family budgets in these five years has been under way since 1938.

In establishing the new Canadian index, the Bureau checked on 45,000 families, selected 1,439 of them located in twelve different cities. Then field workers (mostly home economics students in the universities) made regular surveys of the family budgets. Some surprising results were obtained when the data was finally assembled. The average living cost of the typical family was $1,413.80 per year. The breakdown of living costs is: Food 31 per cent; fuel 6 per cent, shelter 19 per cent; clothing 12 per cent; home furnishing 9 per cent, and miscellaneous 23 per cent. The miscellaneous item includes health, personal care, transportation, recreation, education, savings and life insurance.

The average size of families, as shown by the survey, differs. The maritimes average is 4.6 persons, compared with 5.3 persons in Quebec. The typical Ontario family is the same size as the prairie urban family, 4.3 persons, and the British Columbia family is bigger, 4.4 persons.

The cheapest place to live is in Quebec, with the Maritime provinces running a close second. The prairie cities have an advantage in costs over Ontario cities and over Vancouver. Here are the total family budgets for each region: Maritimes $1,384; Quebec $1,368; Ontario $1,522; Prairies $1,406, and British Columbia $1,419.

The records shed light on the old argument whether it is cheaper to live on the prairies or on the Pacific coast. The prairie figures were obtained at Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Edmonton, and the coast figures at Vancouver. A family's food bill at Vancouver averages $440, on the prairies, $434. Shelter costs are $267 on the prairies, $278 at Vancouver. But fuel and light for the typical family costs only $75 at the coast, compared with $101 on the prairies.

The average Ontario family spends 8.6 per cent of its budget on transportation, or $131 a year; the prairie figure is $93; the Vancouver figure, $103. The reason why Ontario people seem to gad around more than others is that 45 per cent of the Ontario families operate motor cars, compared to 30 per cent in the western cities, and only 10 per cent in Quebec cities. Western Canada leads in families owning their own homes. In Winnipeg 48 per cent of families surveyed owned their homes, 46 per cent in Vancouver, 44 per cent in Edmonton.

All this information, and much more, has now been put on the record for the first time. A close watch will be maintained on the cost of living from now on, and a monthly report will be issued. It should settle a lot of argument.

On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

Do you remember the story of the "Piper of Courcelette," who after fetching victory out of disaster for his fellows, lost his life because he had forgotten his beloved bagpipes? James Richardson was piper of the 16th Battalion, C.E.F., and 24 years ago today (Oct. 8, 1916) accomplished a feat which won him the Victoria Cross, but which he did not live to wear.

The venue was the ridge of Courcelette on that Regina Trench of bitter memory to so many Canadian homes. The 3rd Canadian Infantry Brigade charged before dawn into a zone of wire and other entanglements provided as their death trap. Daylight found the battalion rendered desperate by their abortive attempts to reach the enemy, handicapped by the terrific toll of dead, and striving to force a way through what gaps existed in the wire, with bullets coming in leaden sheets from the trench in front.

"But the dauntless spirit of Findlater hovered over the Canadian Scots. Piper James Richardson was steeped in all the glorious traditions of his Celtic ancestry, and he knew that nothing could inspire the Highlander so much as the stirring music of pibroch. He had received the commanding officer's permission to play his company 'over the top' and the opportunity to fire the blood of his comrades by the magic of the bagpipes was presented to him there.

"The formation of the 16th Battalion," says the citation, "was demoralized for a moment. As calm as if he had been on parade, head cocked jauntily to the side, chest thrown proudly out and the ribbons of his pipes streaming behind, Richardson strode along in front of the wire amid an inferno of fire. He marched and counter-marched up and down unscathed, bearing a charmed life, playing his variations and sending his shrill music into the air, shattered with the roar and crash of battle.

"'The effect was instantaneous,' declared the official record Inspired by his splendid example, the company rushed the wire with such fury and determination that the obstacle was overcome and the position captured. . . .

"'Later, after participating in bombing operations, he was detailed to take back a wounded comrade and prisoners.

"'After proceeding about 200 yards, Piper Richardson remembered that he had left his pipes behind. Although strongly urged not to do so, he insisted on returning to recover his pipes. He has never been seen since, and death has been presumed accordingly owing to lapse of time'."

Speed Up Mills

Editor, Bulletin: This reader enjoyed that editorial "Wheat-Poor" in The Bulletin the other day. The constructive note liquidated a good deal of the shame and tragedy in the situation. I thought I should tell you about a few ideas it sent traipsing through my mind, as to what certain people might do with the 500-odd million bushels of so-called "surplus wheat", which came out of prairie Canada's 1940 fields—if they had it.

1—Henry Ford would turn the job over to his "Shemurgic" laboratories and attach a "must" note, calling for speed and sixteen industrial and non-food uses for the grain.

2—Adolf Hitler would be delighted to "barter" a million men—plus a thousand planes for good measure—for 15,000,000 tons of the bread grain.

3—Chiang Kai Shek would mighty soon have the Japanese homeward bound if a hundred million barrels of flour began "rolling along" the Burma road.

4—General Franco would hardly know bounds to his joy, if he had our wheat in Spanish bins. It might induce him to do things; such as joining the double-cross Axis and going after "The Rock"—which reveals some of the power that is in the wheat kernel.

5—The duPonts would turn the bushelage into 250,000 tons of cellophane, 10,000,000 square yards of cereal insulation board, and 115,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol.

6—The Canadian milling industry has been idling along at around 65 per cent capacity during the past year, during which those wheels processed 80 million bushels. Why not speed-up those wheels

I do not believe that there is any one road out of the wheat-bog; but no stone should be left unturned in the hunt for new disposal channels. The primary producers, of course, have also a central role to play. Under expert leadership, next year's fields should be temporarily trimmed down to the facts. Telling us that there will be 500 million to be carried over into the 1941 season is not enough. We must do something about it—with the price level equivalently swinging upward.

McCoy Health Service

The number of epileptics is relatively small but the number of those who are around them is comparatively large. And it is the attitude of those who witness the attacks which causes the patient more distress than the disease itself.

The average human reaction to an epileptic fit is one of fear. From a sensible point of view, epilepsy is no more terrifying than seeing a person with an attack of seasickness. It is the misfortune of the epileptic that he has times when he becomes unconscious and falls to the ground. It is the misfortune of the person subject to seasickness that he turns green and promptly loses his last meal.

Either attack is humiliating to the patient himself, but the first arouses fear in the bystander, while the second arouses sympathy.

Those of you who witness an epileptic seizure could do a great deal to make life more bearable to the patient if you would try to take the attitude toward an epileptic seizure that you would take toward any other temporary attack which soon passes off and does not interfere with the patient's usefulness at other times.

There are three principal forms of epilepsy. The severe form is referred to as Grand Mal, and during the seizures the patient may fall to the floor, the muscles jerking wildly, with frothing at the mouth, and unconsciousness. The average time one of these seizures will last is 10 minutes, although it may be shorter or longer.

The second form of epilepsy is much milder and is called Petit Mal. This usually consists of a temporary loss of consciousness without convulsions. In a mild attack, the witnesser may only see that the patient is staring straight ahead of him for a few seconds, or that the patient seems to have forgotten what he was doing, or has dropped whatever he had in his hands.

The third form of epilepsy is called Nocturnal Epilepsy, with all of the attacks occurring at night. A patient may have such attacks, for years, before he figures out the true nature of them, from his bitten tongue and blood-stained pillow.

The average person witnessing an attack of the Grand Mal type is greatly alarmed and has a tremendous desire to do something for the patient to bring him out of the seizure. There is nothing the layman can do to arouse the patient quickly, and as the seizure will stop of its own accord, there is no need to try to stop it. Seeing that the patient is comfortable, giving him breathing space, and perhaps placing a clean handkerchief between the teeth, represents the sum total of what the onlooker may do.

Patients interested in material on "Epilepsy" are invited to send for the article of that name. Please forward your request to the McCoy Health Service, enclosing 5c in stamps and a large, self-addressed envelope.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

To be known as a good bridge player is a reputation in itself, even if you are only good enough to beat the neighboring champs; but to become a world champion overnight must have brought a thrill to the four men who won the masters' team-of-four championship this year. Their team was made up at the last moment. Alvin R. Roth and Oscar J. Brotman of Washington, D.C., had no teammates, Bertram Lebhar, Jr., of New Rochelle, N.Y., and Samuel Katz of Newark, N.J., were in the same position, so they formed a team and won the championship. Lebhar demonstrated in today's hand that fine bridge, not luck, brought them the title.

It looked natural for the declarer to trump the opening club lead, but Lebhar (West) took time out to count his tricks and decided to discard a small diamond from dummy. South continued with the ace of clubs and again Lebhar refused to trump in dummy, discarding the five of diamonds.

The eight clubs was led. Lebhar covered with the ten-spot, North played the queen, and this trick was trumped with the five of hearts. The ace of diamonds was cashed and a diamond ruffed.

The heart finesse was taken, the ace of hearts cashed, and declarer gave up a spade trick, thus losing only one spade and two clubs.

"Instead of which he's got engaged to your rival?"

"Yes, he must have got rid of them some other way."

EDSON

EDSON MEN ARE TRAINING FOR HOME DEFENCE

Military training on a voluntary basis is getting well into its stride in Edson, with 48 members of the Veterans' Volunteer Reserve and 35 voluntary recruits in the movement here to date. Further recruits for home defence are wanted, a mistaken impression being that the training is open to veterans only.

Drill parades are at 7.30 Monday, Tuesday, and Friday evenings at the Memorial Hall, and rifle practice Sundays at 2 o'clock. Armbands and caps will be available for V.V.R.'s and recruits shortly.

Instructors are—Squad drill: Sgt. J. H. Burleigh, Sgt.-Major G. MacLean, Corp. S. M. Hart, Corp. R. Anstee. Signalling: W. S. Grierson, T. G. Highet, G. Gurley. First aid: Dr. M. E. Tiffin.

The attention of the authorities is being directed by members of the V.V.R. to Edson's potentialities as a suitable compulsory training centre should additional training points be contemplated.

Honored on the occasion of her 80th birthday, Mrs. M. H. Riggs of Edson was guest of honor at a reception at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Iva Brown, when some 40 guests were received.

One of the old timers of the west, Mrs. Riggs came from Hastings, Ont., marrying Const. M. H. Riggs, N.W.M.P., at Qu'Appelle, September 23, 1887, and for many years the couple made their home at Prince Albert, Sask. Mr. Riggs died at Vancouver, Nov. 25, 1933.

In fairly good health, Mrs. Riggs has a keen memory, and likes to recall the early days in the west.

CORONATION

The local branch of the Red Cross met Wednesday evening in the Royal Crown hotel parlor with President H. L. Staples in the chair. The meeting was poorly attended, possibly due to a change in the meeting night. It was decided to hold future meetings on the first Monday in each month at 8:30.

The auxiliaries are to be urged to lend active co-operation in the forthcoming drive for Red Cross campaign funds—October 14-31.

TWO HILLS

Teachers Attend 2-Day Convention

A two-day teachers' convention was held in Two Hills' hall last week.

Despite the rainy weather there was a 100 per cent attendance of the teachers of Two Hills' school district.

Two outstanding speakers at a banquet on Monday night were Dr. Samuel Everett, professor of the school of education, Northwestern University, and J. W. Barnett, secretary of Alberta Teachers' Association.

M. H. Ponich, mayor of Two Hills, opened the convention by a short address of welcome.

NORDEGG

First Snowfall Of Year At Nordegg

Nordegg got its first taste of winter snows when after a continued warm spell broken only by showers a snowfall was experienced this morning. The roads were very greasy but one traveller managed to get in to Nordegg although it is doubtful whether he will get out again soon.

Nordegg Literary and Athletic Association is trying to get a new man for the job of assistant manager of the men's club. George White succeeded his father in the job of manager and, as he was the assistant formerly, a married man will be sought to take his place.

VIKING

In connection with the local school activities, a parent-teachers association was formed, with the prime object of acquainting parents with the new educational program and the new curricula, and to assist pupils and parents in a better understanding of the problems of all concerned. Officers were elected as follows: H. G. Thunell, president; W. R. Dean, vice-president; Mrs. W. J. Brown, secretary; H. R. Newman, assistant secretary.

Rain and wet weather has held up threshing operations but with the return of sunny skies, work will commence about Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Murray, of Kinsella, recently celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary. Neighbors and friends assisted the highly respected couple by suitable presentations.

INNISFAIL

Innisfail Man Is Honored By Masonic Lodge

At a recent Masonic district meeting held in Olds this week Mr. Dan Morkeberg of the Innisfail lodge was elected D.D.G.M. for the coming year.

Mr. Morkeberg has the distinction of being a Mason for 50 years and his appointment is a very fitting honor to his faithful service towards his lodge work.

Norman Cook, M.L.A. for Olds, and Jack Shaw, Democracy M.P., and Mr. Blackmore, M.P., and leader of the New Democracy movement in the federal house, addressed a meeting in the Armoury building Saturday evening. The federal members gave an interesting account of the recent session.

While having some harness repaired in the shop of Mr. Balstead Friday, Henry John Blain, a highly respected farmer of west of town, took a sudden heart attack and expired almost immediately.

VERMILION

Work Begins On Laying Gas Line For Vermilion

Work on laying the gas line in the town of Vermilion was commenced by the gas company on Monday.

Directors of the Vermilion Agricultural Association met Saturday night and appointed President N. McClellan and Secretary S. C. Heckbert delegates to represent the association at the meeting of the Western Fair Association to be held in Saskatoon on October 18. The delegates were given authority to agree on a date for the Vermilion fair for the year 1941.

A meeting of the Vermilion Municipal Hospital Board is called for Wednesday to make final arrangements for commencing work on the new wing to the hospital.

CROSSFIELD

Soldiers Getting Cigarettes From Crossfield Club

The Crossfield East Community District Smokes Club, organized for the purpose of providing cigarettes for local boys gone overseas, is off to a good start, with nine district youths, thus far, in service across the water, receiving 300 cigarettes apiece each month, from this source. The club is getting strong support, the sum of $73 being realized at a dance in East Community Hall not long ago.

Charles Gordon, well-known Carstairs stockman, won an imposing list of awards this year, at the Victoria, Vancouver and Puyallup, Washington fairs, with his Clydesdale entries. He received 14 championships, 21 firsts, 14 seconds, 9 thirds, 2 fourths, 2 fifths and 2 sixths.

TROCHU

A letter has been received here from Pte. John Hedrick, Trochu boy now serving somewhere in England, in which he describes a few of his experiences. Part of the letter, which is dated Sept. 11, is as follows:

"Since I've been here I have seen some hellish sights. A person does not realize what it is like here until you have been in a place that is being raided. We have had a couple of air attacks here since I arrived but fortunately there were few casualties. Last Sunday in London the bombs were dropping like hailstones.

"The civilian population really get the worst of it, but they don't seem to mind as much as one would expect. I had a bomb drop only a few feet from me as I was running for a shelter. Luckily it was only one of those small incendiary bombs or I wouldn't be writing this. Here in the camp though we have concrete shelters and can always get into them when the warning goes.

"In the area where I am I belong to a unit which investigates enemy activities. So far I have seen two German planes shot down. In one the pilot baled out safely but the other was dead when his machine crashed near us. I also saw a British plane brought down but the pilot baled out and landed safely. He happened to be a Canadian at that."

YELLOWKNIFE

The employment situation in this area is much improved over a year ago. During September last year there were a large number of unemployed in the district, this year there are none. In fact there might be considered to be a slight scarcity of labor and recently the Bennett and White Construction Company chartered a plane and went to Ft. Smith where ten men were secured.

When the hydro project is completed, about the end of November, there will be some extra men in the settlement as this will mean the lay-off of about 130 men.

The first shipment of meats and packing house products for the Yellowknife Supplies new cold storage plant arrived Saturday aboard the Northern Prospector's refrigerator unit. The area now has two cold storage plants, one located at the Con camp and the new plant located in town.

BENTON STATION

Rainfall amounting to .65 inches fell last week and the farmers have been forced to postpone threshing operations. A great amount of the wheat through the district had graded number one. The rain will bring wheat in stooks down to grade two and combined wheat down to grade three

Fifty Times Deadlier Bomb

That aerial bomb which Master Sgt. Frank Newton is holding none too gingerly at San Diego, Calif., is no plaything. Newton, head of the Fort Rosecrans ordnance department and recognized army authority on combustion, said he had developed a new construction method increasing bomb's destructive capacity 50 fold. Army ordnance officers are experimenting with the new bomb construction.

Wealth Of Vegetables Grown At Yellowknife: Flowers In Profusion

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T., Oct. 8.—Surprising to visitors to this area is the profusion of vegetable growth and particularly gardening possibilities. Here, 700 miles north of Edmonton, tomatoes, cucumbers, cabbage, cauliflower, rhubarb, potatoes, carrots, turnips, peas, beets, beans, radishes, head lettuce and fine array of flowers, such as California poppies, asters, carnations, petunias and stocks are grown. Nor did the district experience a killing frost until September 30 this year.

Martin Bode, Bear lake pioneer, who came to Yellowknife a little more than a year ago has started a truck garden on the Giant property about two miles north west of Yellowknife. Bode, who has had about half an acre under cultivation this year, supplies local residents with most of their green vegetables.

From 20 cucumber plants Bode has sold more than 550 pounds of cucumbers. Some specimens measured up to 26 inches in length and weighed 3¾ lbs.

Mr. Bode has about five acres which he ultimately expects to get under cultivation. So far all work has been done by hand. The soil is black loam with some fine sand and a little clay. It produces well and requires little fertilizer. Bode employed a small gasoline motor and pump to assure adequate supply of moisture.

GOOD GROWTH

Potatoes planted June 1 were being used early in August. Cabbage plants were set out June 10 and had produced good firm and large heads by the beginning of September. Radishes were planted in the open May 15.

A Dane by birth, Bode learned gardening in his homeland. He migrated to Canada in 1914 and settled in the Peace River area. In 1933 he built two scows at Dunvegan and with his wife and effects sailed north to Eldorado. Here he worked for Eldorado Mines until coming to Yellowknife.

ANDREW

Debunker

H-B

The old saying, "A man convinced against his will, is of the same opinion still," is just another piece of nonsense that happens to rhyme, and so is easily remembered. The very definition of the word "convince" leaves no possibility of mental reservation, or any doubt as to the truth of the matter. To convince a person is to cause him to believe a thing with conviction. This is impossible if it is against a man's will. To merely assent to a thing, while really not changing one's mind, is not to be convinced.

DOMINION TO SHIP MILLIONS OF TREES SOUTH

By KEN CLARK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 8—Millions of Canadian evergreens will start moving into the United States next month—paradoxically helping win the war against Hitler by spreading Christmas cheer.

Last year, shipments of Canadian Christmas trees across the line were valued at $536,692 in Canadian funds. But since the trees were sold in United States, this sum became available to Canada in the form of American exchange.

Nowadays, American credits are needed to purchase munitions and other war supplies manufactured in United States factories. In terms of war planes, for instance, Christmas trees last year have provided about 20 front-line fighters, priced somewhere around $25,000 apiece.

During the next two months, millions of trees will be shipped to New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Connecticut, Missouri and Maryland. In 1939 these states imported 4,643,961 trees, an increase of almost 500,000 over shipments of the previous year. The Canadian government expects still another icnrease this Christmas season.

There has been a movement in Scotch pine especially in the border cities of Ontario and for several years past young Douglas firs from British Columbia have been growing in favor and are now moving eastward to central and eastern United States markets.

Meantime, Canada's forests are helping in another way to maintain the Dominion's foreign exchange position.

The resources department says that each year for domestic consumption Canada used about 3,400,000 tons of anthracite coal and about 1,800,000 tons of bituminous coal, all imported.

The department, urging use of wood for fuel, points out that householders can help save foreign exchange—and at the same time reduce their fuel costs—by using more wood for heating purposes.

State Medicine To Be Considered By Sask. League

SASKATOON, Oct. 7.—A proposed system of state medicine will be considered by the Saskatchewan state hospital and medical league at its annual convention which opens here today, Dr. W. H. Setka of Prince Albert, president of the group, announced today.

Details of the plan have not yet been made public but, according to the executive, it will be the first of its kind to be brought forward in Canada. The organization has been working on the scheme for four years.

It includes provision for preventive medicine, distribution of medicine, hospitals and clinics, and financing.

OYEN

Rain fell very heavy at Oyen the past week. It will delay harvest operations for a week at least.

CANADA WILL AUGMENT NAVY BY 100 SHIPS

Will Cost Fifty Million Dollars Minister Says—Personnel Increase

WINNIPEG, Oct 8—Navy Minister Angus Macdonald said in an interview here Monday that Canada will build 100 additional naval ships during the next year at a cost of approximately $50,000,000 and will increase its naval personnel from about 12,000 men to 20,000 by the spring of 1942.

En route from Ottawa to visit Canada's Pacific naval establishments, Mr. Macdonald said expansion probably will involve enlargement of facilities at the naval bases of Halifax and Esquimalt, B.C.

Canada's navy had been increased in one year from 13 to 130 vessels and it was hoped to increase it within a year by another 100 vessels, ranging from destroyers down to smaller craft.

It had not been determined whether the Dominion would acquire larger craft such as cruisers, the minister said, explaining enlargement of the Royal Canadian navy was being carried out after consultation with the British government.

Most of Canada's ship-building plants on the eastern and western coasts, on the St. Lawrence and on the Great Lakes were making naval equipment.

Questioned concerning disposition of prize money from the German freighter Weser, recently captured by the armed Canadian cruiser Prince Robert, Mr. Macdonald said he understood all prize money from ships captured by navies of all British empire countries will be pooled and distributed at the end of the war among sailors in the empire navies.

Mr. Macdonald left last night by train for Regina. He will inspect Royal Canadian naval volunteer divisions at Regina and Calgary before flying to Vancouver.

Coffee Flavored Doughnut Will Be On Market Soon

British United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 8.—Bakers have invented a "pre-dunked" doughnut.

A fluffy bit of pastry, resembling the old-fashioned model, it is coffee flavored, and eliminates the breakfast table sport which for decades has delighted gourmets, ruined table cloths and scorched finger tips.

Not yet on the market, it will make its debut at the fall convention of the Connecticut Bakers' Association next week.

Ironically, the convention will hear several papers defending dunking. The bakers aren't sure how the pre-dunker will "catch on."

Invasion Report Scored By Nazis

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—Nazi officials put a damper on conjecture over a "maybe" hint of an attempt at invasion of Great Britain broadcast by a German soldier-reporter, who said the Nazi air force "may soon be followed by hundreds of thousands of brave German soldiers who are in readiness and burning for action."

These sources said the soldier-reporter had merely "reported what he saw and expressed his own private opinion."

done. But it would take a new orientation in education—and there one is up against the "system."

It was out of just such a generation of emotionally and spiritually unemployed youth—youth whom "dynamism" and "historic relativism" had left utterly rudderless—that Hitler made the leadership of a movement that has plunged a large part of the earth into destruction. I knew just such youth fifteen years ago in Germany, and with fascinated and horrified eyes I saw how easy it was for the first leader, appealing to their confused unconscious longing for a faith, to sweep them with him, merely by affirming the barbaric standard of blood and soil. Our colleges are full of youths who think that Hitler or Stalin—preferably Hitler, because he appeals more strongly to the well-to-do youth—are great men. Why should they not, since they have no measuring rods by which to test greatness?

Out of this youth should come the intellectual, spiritual and political leadership of tomorrow. For in a democracy like ours, where there are no fixed social classes enjoying the prestige of a long tradition of leadership, the universities must train the natural aristocracy—the aristocracy of the mind, spirit and character, without whose leadership society slips into chaos.

But if the intellectually gifted, the naturally superior, and the relatively privileged are rendered impotent of leadership by their education, then the power will certainly pass into the hands of those whom Whitman called "powerful uneducated persons," who have, at least, the realistic education of the shops and the gutters, the discipline of the factories and the farms, who have learned that you can't debate with hurricanes or hunger, or with tanks, or guns, or machines.

To be able neither to produce the food, clothing, and shelter of the material world nor the faith, convictions and continuity with tradition which keeps society on keel, means, simply, that a class resigns from history. But history goes on just the same.

Looking Them Over

Fish Larceny

Four Arrested

Football Night

JUST to soothe my nerves while I wait for today's news from the world series front at Cincinnati, we'll turn to the world's most popular sport so far as number of devotees are concerned—fishing. Actually the two sports that claim more participants than all the rest combined are hunting and fishing.

From the House of Lords in London to a house of mud in central Africa, aristocrat and bum, white man and black, patriarch and urchin, you'll find uncounted millions who go fishing and hunting.

All of which gets us around to the story of the Seattle Times' Salmon Derby which has just exploded with four major prize winners arrested on grand larceny charges.

The Times staged this derby as a promotion feature and it drew hundreds of competitors, each of whom had to fish in a prescribed area of Seattle within a certain time limit and then present their catches to judges who weighed them out. The winners drew rich prizes—$1,000 cash for first, then a number of new cars and scores of other valuable awards.

Four winners of new cars have just been arrested and face grand larceny charges which allege that the fish they submitted to win their prizes with had not been caught according to the rules of the contest.

M. E. Smith, the first arrested, confessed that he had joined in a frame up and declared that it had been engineered by Anthony Zaunich of Everett. Zaunich obtained four of the biggest salmon that the Swinomish Indians had caught in their traps at Hope Island. They were kept alive in a submerged cage until the final morning of the derby contest.

Fishing started an hour or so before daylight on the closing day. Zaunich got the fish out of the trap, concealed them in the bottom of his boat and then rowed out to take his place with the hundreds of other contestants. Just before daylight he started whistling an agreed on tune and one by one the other three conspirat[illegible] slipped over to his boat and he gave each one a salmon. To make things convincing, each one hooked a plug in his dead victim's mouth and then took it out to leave convincing marks for the judges to see.

However the judges became a bit suspicious for some reason they have not disclosed yet, but they awarded four new cars for the phoney catches. Then further information was obtained and warrants issued. There was a state-wide search by police before Smith was rounded up. With radio cars cruising the highways and motorcycle patrols out the search was probably a bit hotter and wider than would have been launched for a bank bandit. The Seattle Times threw all its power into the demand for immediate arrests and thousands of hopping mad fishermen spurred the police to shoot the works.

Smith was arrested at his home at Pasco shortly after midnight. He confessed freely and said he had told his wife about it and had decided to go to Seattle the next morning and tell the whole truth. He declared that Zaunich had engineered the whole thing, getting him, Frank Du Pay and two others to go into it. Each was to get $300 cash as soon as he turned the car won over to Zaunich.

Junior Football Tonight

TONIGHT at Clarke Stadium the Edmonton Athletic Club and Maple Leaf Athletic Club, outfits which have battled each other tooth and nail here in junior hockey, will tangle for the first time on a gridiron. It will be a regular fixture of the City Junior Football League, timed to get underway at 8:30 p.m. under the floodlights.

Both of these clubs have taken it on the chin from the strong South Side Spitfires. The Leafs lost 10-4 and the E.A.C. dropped a thriller by a 17-11 count. Tonight one of these clubs is going to chalk up its first victory of the season and both are determined to win that honor.

The city high schools also open their football schedule today with two games billed in the senior division. They are playing the six-man variety. Incidentally, A. S. Bird, physical director for the school board, is using an interesting method to divide his senior, junior and bantam divisions. It is known as the McCloy system. The player's age is multiplied by 20, to this is added six times the height in inches and then the weight in pounds is added. Players with a total of 857 and less are bantams, those from 858 to 899 are juniors and those from 900 up are seniors.

Wilson to Hibernate In Bed After Series

By HENRY McLEMORE

British United Press, Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—Win or lose, Jimmy Wilson's first purchase out of his world's series money will include seven rocking chairs, four hammocks, six gallons of imported liniment and the day and night services of a professional sympathizer.

The minute the series ends today the 40-year-old Reds catcher, who came out of retirement to work behind the plate, plans to leave for his home in Philadelphia. Then, for three months he will alternate between the rocking chairs and the hammocks, stirring himself only enough to slosh liniment over his aching bones.

"I am to have the sympathizer sit beside me and join me in my groans and moans," Jimmy explained.

"Nobody really knows how I feel after catching this series and I want some kind person near me while I rest, to shoo off people who try to get me to move."

NEW WORLD RECORD

Wilson set the world's record for weariness Monday when he slumped down in the locker room after catching Bucky Walters in his 4-0 shut-out of the Tigers in the sixth game. He sort of collapsed on the bench, too tired to take off even his cap. Owner Powell Crosley came by to congratulate him but Jimmy was too spent to even shake hands.

"I'll do that later, Mister Crosley," Wilson said.

None of his teammates dared slap him on the back, lest they snap the one or two sound vertebrae remaining in his back. Wilson explained that he was tired and creaky before the first game of the series last Wednesday and that with the passing of each game his miseries increased.

"When I tried to get out of bed the morning after the first game I counted 37 distinct snaps and pops somewhere in my bones," Wilson said slowly. "After the second game there were 48 creaking sounds and by this morning I sounded like a batch of squirrels on a roof when I staggered up. When I started to get up I bet myself ten bucks even money, I wouldn't make it."

One of the most stirring sights the series has provided to date came in the Reds' half of the sixth inning when Wilson scored from third on an infield hit by Walters. With the bases loaded, Wilson had no choice but to make a try for home when Walters rolled one to the Tigers' third baseman, Pinky Higgins. With the crack of the bat, Wilson gave his aging joints a stern talking to, called on them to do or die, and started off in low gear. Ten steps and he was in second gear, doing a furious 3 mph. Five yards from home he slipped into high and roared across the plate at between 5 and 6 mph. He beat Higgins' throw by an inch and the crowd saluted him as if he had performed a miracle, which was exactly what he had done.

It is customary to wait until a world series is completed before naming the number one hero. But this time I am going to scorn this procedure and give you Wilson as the man who deserves baseball's croix de guerre, Victoria Cross, Congressional Medal and Merit Badge for effort. His catching has been perfect. He has been getting his hits, and he has taken the bumps at home plate like a man 20 years his junior.

Before the series started the Reds gave Jimmy a watch for catching the last month of the regular season when Lombardi was injured. If they win the series, the Reds should have a duplicate made of Big Ben, have it smothered in jewels, and ship it off to Jimmy in Philadelphia. The chances are though, that he wouldn't get out of his rocking chair to unwrap it.

BANTAM BARTELL MAY BE BOSSY BUT PACKS GOODS

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

British United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—A little bantam rooster shortstop who toured around the National League for 12 years and finally was waived out of the circuit as a washed-up ball player is making a new kind of niche for himself in world series competition.

With a strident voice that can be heard all over the ball park, rowdy Dick Bartell is driving the Detroit Tigers onward to their goal of the world's championship.

This little fellow who was practically kicked off the Chicago Cubs is telling a lot of big guys weighing 185, 200 and 210 pounds where to get off and making 'em like it. He's got a field genius and his bat doesn't carry much authority but when it comes to putting hustle and ginger in an aging and lifeless infield he's the goods.

Buck Newsom felt the stinging lash of his words on opening day when he neglected to back up third base late in the game. Billy Werber had doubled with one out. Then Mike McCormick rolled to Rudy York at first. Newsom failed to make a move to back up third to protect a bad throw in case Werber tried to advance on the play. Bartell went charging toward the box and in a sharp tone that could be heard in the press box on the roof said:

"Get over there and back up third on a play like that."

Just because the 210-pound Newsom was out in front, 7-1, was no reason he could get careless and give the Reds an inch of daylight. Bartell told him so and Newsom didn't argue back. He knew Bartell was right.

In talking about it in the dressing room afterwards Bartell said, "We won about five games during the season hustling and playing up to the hilt every minute. There's no reason for us to stop doing it now."

LITTLE THINGS COUNT

A tiny squirt weighing only 160 Bartell believes it's the little things that win and save ball games. In the third game yesterday he probably saved one base hit by his quick thinking and loud voice. With the score tied, 1-1, Frank McCormick hit a slow roller down the third base line. It looked like it would stay fair but Bartell yelled at Higgins and Bridges from his shortstop position:

"Let it roll!"

They did and at the last second it rolled foul by an inch. Bartell figured Higgins didn't have a chance to throw McCormick out if he fielded the ball and so he took charge of the situation and yelled for him to let it roll.

Then when lumbering Ernie Lombardi hit a hot smash to Higgins, Bartell chirped up, "take your time." Higgins probably had the situation sized up as well as Bartell but the little guy with the big voice makes certain there's no doubt about the play and how to make it.

ALWAYS HUSTLING

Bartell is in there scrapping, hustling and barking every day from bell to bell. The Tigers' infielders may be old and creaky but to see them respond to Bartell's urging makes one wonder if the National League didn't make a serious mistake in letting him get away. Even Bartell, who'll be 33 next November, makes an occasional fancy play reminiscent of his palmy days with the Giants. But his aging legs, spiked and scarred, won't cover the ground they once did. Not even rowdy Dicks urging can make 'em do that.

But all the other Tigers, big and small, old and young, know that their sparkplug is the National League castoff and they do his bidding. And it may mean a title for them.

Series Shorts

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—This 1940 world series has proved that Bucky Walters is a ball player.

It's been a long time since anybody saw a pitcher who could starve some of the best sluggers of the major leagues, field like a farmer bringing in the harvest, and top it off with a home run. Bucky did it.

Bill Werber, the Reds' hot stuff at third base, has his own explanation of why he and Pinky Higgins, the Tigers' same, have been so busy.

"In a tight series like this," Bill said, "everybody's so anxious that they're hitting a little ahead of the ball and that sends it down our way."

Scalpers were standing in front of the downtown hotels with their tongues hanging out. Some were glad to get carfare home out of the day's business. At the park one woman gave away a good box seat before she went in.

Frank Lane, the Reds' farm chief, gave out the best understatement of the series as the Reds took the field to start the game.

"If we don't win today," said Frank shrewdly, "the series is practically over."

Eddie Joost's stop of Bruce Campbell's hot smash between second and first in the seventh was worth stretching your neck around a post to see.

Reds' Winning Battery

With his arm around the shoulders of his catcher and former manager, Jimmy Wilson, Pitcher Bucky Walters leaves the field after scoring a 5-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers to even up the world's series one game each. This same pair again evened the series on Monday.

Bucky Again Proves National's Wonder Boy

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—Bucky Walters, the wonder boy of National League pitchers for two years, pitched and batted Cincinnati Reds to a 4-0 conquest over Detroit Tigers Monday and forced the 1940 world series to its limit of seven games.

Just as he hurled three-hit ball to tame the Tigers in the second game of the series and even the standing last Thursday, Bucky Monday pitched a nearly flawless five-hit game to strangle them into a shutout.

But almost more than his pitching, the 30,481 hopeful hometown fans goggled at the home run their hero hit over the left field wall in the eighth inning.

This blow, the second homer Walters hit this year, only served to heap humiliation on the Tigers. It came off young Fred Hutchinson long after the Reds had sewed up the victory by shelling Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe off the mound in the first inning.

REDS LIKED ROWE

The Tigers banked heavily on Rowe repudiating his performance against Walters in their previous tangle, when he was knocked out by a five-run uprising in the fourth inning. Instead the same stuff that the Reds liked before they liked earlier Monday.

Bill Werber started the steamup with a terrific liner against the fence in the first inning, good for a double. Mike McCormick sacrificed him to third and then Ival Goodman, Frank McCormick and Jim Ripple hit consecutive singles to send Rowe to the showers.

Werber scored on a hit by Goodman who raced home from second on Ripple's sharp shot to centre.

John Gorsica, who relieved Rowe in his other fiasco, came up with another creditable fireman's performance, stopping this rally and allowing only one run and five hits in the 6 2-3 innings he pitched.

WORK WASTED

But as on the other occasion, Gorsica's work was wasted because Walters kept whipping his fast downer to the plate where the Tigers could do nothing with it. Bucky also benefited from the sort of tight defence that brought the Reds their pennant but which has shown only in spasms in this series.

As the result of the Reds' triumph, the 1940 world series will be the first to go seven games since St. Louis Cardinals beat these same Tigers in 1934 for the last world championship won by a National League club.

Cincinnati is in a good strategic position to repeat this victory by having Big Paul Derringer ready for the final game here today with two days' rest since whipping the Bengals in Detroit Saturday.

IT'S UP TO BUCK

The Tigers appear certain to come back with Buck Newsom on one day's rest and hope that he can continue the mastery that subdued the Reds last Wednesday and again Sunday.

The Reds, although making two errors behind Walters Monday, looked the best they have during the series in batting out a 10-hit barrage against the three Detroit pitchers.

Walters struck out only two men, but he walked only two and with the help of his teammates kept out of serious jams. In the fourth, sixth and ninth innings Frank McCormick, Eddie Joost and Billy Myers helped out with double plays.

Everyone of the Reds except Joost and Myers shared in the hitting spree and Werber's two safeties boosted his total for the series to 10, the most for any player on either club.

SAIDLER SHOOTS PERFECT SCORES

Members of the Edmonton Garrison Rifle Association turned in some of their finest shooting to date at the Winterburn range on Sunday when they shot from 200 and 500-yard hillocks.

No less than five turned in perfect scores on the shorter range—F. Daniel, L. R. Gorham, C. E. McLaughlin, J. Saidler and H. R. Skitch.

J. Saidler copped top honors when he went back to the 500-yard line and snapped in seven more bulls for a perfect score at both distances. He was the only man to accomplish this feat.

Godoy Wins Bout

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Arturo Godoy, the South American heavyweight from Chile, took the first step toward a third meeting with Champion Joe Louis Monday night by outmauling Gus Dorazio, Philadelphia, to win a 10-round decision in a rough bout. There were no knockdowns.

The Chilean, with an eight-pound weight margin at 202, piled up a big advantage by fighting at close quarters and won the decision unanimously. Nearly 5,000 saw the fight.

Dorazio, who had won his 11 previous fights, found it difficult to stop Godoy from landing hard lefts to the body in the clinches.

Bombers Register Six Times in Final Frame

TORONTO, Oct. 8—Vancouver Burrard Blue Bombers took a one-game lead in their quest for the Canadian Senior Lacrosse championship with a 14-9 victory over St. Catharines Athletics here Monday night. Second game of the best-of-five series for the Mann cup won last year by New Westminster, will be held here Wednesday.

Never ahead until the dying moments of the third quarter, the Bombers smashed through for six goals in the final frame while holding the vaunted Athletics scoreless. It was the first time this season that the Saints had been held to no score in any quarter of a game.

Gameness of the Bombers in their climb to victory on a strange floor, earned them the ovation of a crowd of 5,125—large for a lacrosse match here.

The Athletics, who lost out to Adanacs in the Dominion finals on the Pacific Coast last season, started with a rush and popped in the first goal just 29 seconds after the game started. That score seemed to protend a St. Catharines victory because the Bombers appeared out of place and uncertain on the concrete floor. Their combination began to click, however, and although behind 4-2 at the end of the quarter, they were improving all the time. Behind 6-5 at half time, Bombers went all out, swept the Athletics off their feet with persistent checking and speed and were much the fresher at the finish.

High scorer of the game was Harry (Buck) Berry, a red-haired chunk of dynamite who never stopped trying. A defenceman, he was a brilliant figure amid the talent that surrounded him on the Burrard roster. Although fights threatened at odd moments in the heavy going, none broke out and only minor penalties were issued.

Burrards, who defeated New Westminster for the right to come east, advanced to the finals with a two-game series victory over Cornwall Indians in Montreal last week. Athletics, Dominion finalists the last three years and Mann cup holders tow years ago, earned the right to contest the championship series by winning the Ontario title.

Four of Coast Players Injured

TORONTO, Oct. 8—Battle-scarred and weary, Vancouver Burrard Blue Bombers marched into their dressing room after winning the first game of the Canadian Senior Lacrosse final Monday night and immediately began a fiery discussion of what they said was the rough play by St. Catharines Athletics.

Three of the players and even the non-playing coach, Les Dickinson, came out of the stormy fourth quarter with injuries. Dickinson was struck by a St. Catharines player's stick on the side of his right eye as he was walking to the dressing room. Pat Theal, Harry (Buck) Berry and Beau Bradford also had injuries and all but Bradford's were suffered in the last quarter when the Blue Bombers smashed home six goals to clinch a 14-9 decision in the first game of the best-of-five series.

"We've got more guts than they have," said Dickinson. "They chopped us. They cut us. But those kids of mine can take it. The refereeing was good but the officials let them get too rough in the last period with that slashing and chopping." The tall Vancouver coach said it was the rough play that turned the crowd to cheering for the Western invaders in the final quarter.

Eye injuries were suffered by Theal and Bradford. Theal was clipped in the dying minutes of the last quarter and one stitch was required to close a cut over his right eye. Bradford received a cut over his left eye in the third period but Trainer Moon Cameron was able to patch it up without stitches.

One stitch was required to close the wound Berry received on his upper lip when struck by a stick.

McCormick Learns Must Retain Ball

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—First baseman Frank McCormick discovered Monday that a ball player must hang on to the ball even if an umpire gets in his way.

McCormick took a grounder off the bat of Earl Averill, Detroit pinch hitter, in the sixth game of the world series but in dashing to the bag for the putout collided with Umpire Ballanfant and dropped the ball after Ballanfant had called Averill out.

When McCormick and Ballanfant untangled on the ground the umpire called Averill safe and the first sacker was charged with an error despite vigorous protests from his Cincinnati teammates.

Varsity Notes

Plans are being completed for next Saturday's parade as a preliminary to Varsity's first football game. For several years a parade has been held on the day of the first intercollegiate fixture and as all inter-university sports have been cancelled, the initial appearance of Coach Bob Fritz and his Golden Bears in the city junior league has been seized upon as the appropriate occasion for this year's show.

Arrangements are in the hands of Jack Butterfield and Bob Christensen of the sports publicity committee along with Bob Haddad, president of men's athletics. The parade will leave the University at 2 p.m. for the north side and will return to the stadium just prior to the game. Each faculty and school at Varsity will be represented in the floats and no doubt there will be some weird and wonderful effects produced, judging by past performances.

A pep rally will be held at Convocation hall on Friday evening with Fred Pritchard in charge and will broadcast over CKUA. This will be a signal for an out-burst of the pent-up Varsity spirit. There will also be the traditional snake dances and other stunts the products of originality of which University students alone seem to possess an abundance—all incidental to the first appearance of the Golden Bears.

All students will be admitted to Varsity's home games by the production of the evergreen and gold card in lieu of the usual Campus A card.

The inter-faculty football league will commence next week with Manager Bob Walford in charge.

Coach Fritz is gradually rounding the 1940 football machine into shape. Bob Freeze of the Calgary Bronks is expected to cut quite a swathe in junior league circles and amongst others are noted: Frank Fitzgerald who starred with the Spitfires in their first appearance, George Stewart, McCallum, Jack Millar and Bruce McKay.

Vitt Claims Lack of Support By Officials Caused Dissension

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 8.—Failure of club officials to give him proper support was the chief reason for the dissension on Cleveland Indians this season, Manager Oscar Vitt declared Monday when he returned home from a "nightmarish season." Vitt charged two or three disgruntled athletes with inspiring the player rebellion which some observers believe cost the Indians the American League pennant.

This insurrection was climaxed when Bobby Feller, Indian pitching ace, and a number of teammates demanded from club president, Alva Bradley, that Vitt either cease "riding" them or quit his job.

The Cleveland pilot said he had not resigned because "I'm no quitter."

Vitt declined to name the player or players he thought responsible for the trouble. He added:

"I knew nothing about the trouble until I got back from a father and son meeting at Lynn, Mass., where I appeared as a speaker earlier in the evening. Bob Feller was to have gone down there with me. And I guess at the time I was telling what a fine boy he was and apologizing for his failure to show up, he was among those present on the firing squad at what was supposed to be my execution.

"Only two or three did the talking. The others who appeared before Bradley were only onlookers. I believe the boys are sorry for what they did. After the final game of the season every last one of them shook my hand, wished me a pleasant winter, and with one or two exceptions, said they hoped I'd be back with them as manager next spring."

Boss Irvin Declares All Team Berths Open

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., Oct. 8.—Coach Dick Irvin of Montreal's National Hockey League Canadiens today declared "there are 15 places open on this team and everybody's got a chance," as 26 aspirants for playing berths buckled into training here today.

Prominent among the prospects are four former Edmonton players, Joe Benoit who has been playing with Trail, Mark Mavecty who has been with Kansas City, Ken Reardon from the E.A.C. and Morey Rimstad who has been playing centre for the Vancouver Lions of the Pacific Coast League.

Cliff Goupille and Tony Demers were the only members of last season's Canadiens on hand when training opened.

Players up from the minors include Aud Tuten, a defenceman from Minneapolis, defenceman Loren Mercer from the Vancouver Lions and right winger Jackie Adams, also from the Lions.

Amateurs trying out include Jack Tuten, brother of Aud, who played in the Eastern United States League last winter, Elmer Lach from Moose Jaw, Stan Rooke of Perth and a number of Montrealers.

Coach Irvin, who formerly was with Toronto Leafs, left no doubt but what he was determined on a new deal all around in the Habitant machine. Any player making a place will have to cut the mustard according to Irvin's high standards.

Regulars of the Canadiens will report on Oct. 14.

Patrick Goes To Bruin Camp

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

EDSON, Oct. 8.—Mike Patrick, well-known to Alberta hockey fans, has accepted an offer from Boston Bruins for a try-out in big time hockey this winter, and left Edson Tuesday for the east. His decision follows negotiations by telegraph with the eastern club, Seattle also being anxious to acquire him, and making competitive bids.

Mike started his hockey career with the Camrose Midgets, the winter of 1937-38 he played with Medicine Hat Tigers, and played right wing with Edmonton E.A.C. juniors during the 1938-39 season when they captured the western title and lost the dominion final to Oshawa. Last winter he was right winger with Calgary Stampeders.

A resident of Camrose until June this year when his family moved here, Mike carries the best wishes of his many friends here in Edson. Mike will be 21 on Dec. 11th, weighs 183 stripped, and stands 5 feet 9 inches. His two brothers, Harry, now in the navy, and Pete, now in the air force, were prominent hockey players in Alberta.

SEATTLE, Oct. 8.—Seattle hockey club announced Monday the signing of two new forwards for the 1940-41 Pacific Coast Hockey League season.

They were: Paul Lord, formerly with Vancouver and last year with Wichita in the American Association, and Herman Gruhn, a high scoring amateur from Coleman, Alta.

The deals were made by Danny Cox, who is returning to Seattle as manager. He reported them from his home at Port Arthur, Ont.

Louisville Beats Newark Bears To Remain In Series

NEWARK, N.J., Oct. 8.—Louisville stepped back into the running in the 1940 little world series Monday night when lanky Cecil (Tex.) Hughson, whose relief hurling last Friday gave the Colonels their only other victory, went to the mound and pitched his teammates to a 6-2 decision over Newark Bears by scattering nine hits.

The victory still left the Colonels, who won the American Association playoffs after finishing fourth in the regular season, a game behind the Bears who hold a three-game-to-two edge in the best of seven series.

A crowd of 8,115 in Ruppert Stadium saw George Washburn, a righthander who scored the first of Newark's three series triumphs, start for the International League playoff champions.

He was nicked for single runs in the second, third, fourth and fifth innings and left the mound in the eighth with one out and the bases loaded. Alan Gettel came in and was greeted with a single by Woody Williams, sending home the final two Louisville tallies.

With The Pin Busters

In the Mercantile 10 pin league Monday night, Bruce Wilkins picked off 234 to edge out in front for singles high and Bruce Wilkins, of Drew Machines, had the best triple rolling, 205, 192 and 175 for a total of 572.

C.N.R. Moose had the high team aggregate with 2882, with Drew Machine's 2714 in second spot. C.N.R. Calder were the only three-game winners.

YOUNG PEOPLES' LEAGUE

In the Monday Young Peoples' mixed 5 pin group Camroux of Norwood No. 1 came through with 266 in his third game to win singles honors and his side-kick, Ball, took three-game high with 558 by chalking up 183, 187 and 188.

HERB WOOD SHOWS WAY

Sixteen teams turned out in the Monday Nite Mixed league and the Rough Necks, Fanceys and T. H. Morgans took three straight wins, the first named having the best team aggregate—2987.

The Rough Necks also produced the best individual scores. Herb Wood producing 327 in his second effort and Andy Brown coming up with three counts of 217, 300 and 226 for a total of 743 for high triple.

ZELLERS' MIXED LEAGUE

Zellers' six teams were out with a perfect attendance as usual and J. McTavish of the Flyers led the procession with 228 for a single game mark. R. Hildreth, leading off for the Aces crossed under the wire with the best triple score getting 302, 175 and 193 to total 571.

BILL KELLY ROLLS 320

In the Civic Men's Fives, Automatics, Engineers and McCallum's won three straight and Bill Kelly with 320 and Percy Earle with 656 were the top bowlers in singles and for three games respectively.

DOMINY LEADS HIS GROUP

In the combined N.A.R.-A.G.T. group Dominy was in top spot for a single count with 287, while Wilson of the Gongs picked off 501 in his two games to grab the honors.

JIM LYNCH IN SPOTLIGHT

The Theatre 5 pinners also started Monday night but none of the boys had much chance against Jim Lynch. Jim chased 282 into the pen in his first game and followed with 193 to take both single and two-game highs.

JAPS LAND ON ISLAND LEASED BY GT. BRITAIN

Liu Kung Occupied By Nippon Navy In Spite Of British Protests

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8—The Japanese navy was reported today to have landed forces on Liu Kung Island off Shantung peninsula on which the Chinese government of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek recently granted Great Britain renewal of a 10-year lease.

The landing apparently was designed to enforce the stand of the Japanese-dominated Chinese regime at Nanking, which regards the lease as no longer operative.

Travellers from Wehaiwei on the northern shore of Shantung peninsula said the Japanese posted proclamations announcing they were taking over the island.

DENY LEASE

The proclamations, printed in Japanese, Chinese and English, said:

"British interests based on the Liu Kung Tao agreement of 1930 have terminated on Sept. 30, 1940, the Imperial Japanese navy will hereafter take over and administer Liu Kung Tao for military necessity."

A Japanese cruiser, two destroyers and several auxiliary vessels were reported several days ago off the island, which the British navy's China squadron has been using as a summer station.

LAND MARINES

The Japanese were said to have landed a contingent of marines as a garrison and to have quartered them in buildings in the former British dockyard.

It was understood British naval officials here have been unable to communicate with Liu Kung. A protest to Tokyo was expected.

Travellers brought reports also that the Japanese had requested British naval authorities to move out of all property they occupy. Hitherto the Japanese have made no request against private British properties.

NEGLIGENCE IN DAKAR AFFAIR SAYS PREMIER

LONDON, Oct. 8—Speaking in the House of Commons today, Mr. Churchill suggested that the Dakar incident could easily be expanded out of all proportion and confessed there had been both negligence and error in the passage of French ships through Gibraltar to the French West Africa port.

He bespoke confidence in the judgment of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, leader of French forces still fighting with Britain, that Dakar had been a friend of free France until the arrival of those ships altered the situation. He gave assurance that sterner action against the enemy would follow that incident.

Injuries Fatal To Young Transient

Husband Honored

Mrs. Rose Bingham Fiske is shown as she arrived in New York from England. She is the widow of William Meade Lindsley Fiske, III, American bobsled ace who died of wounds sustained in an aerial fight against German raiders while he was flying as a member of the Royal Air Force. Fiske had shot down several German planes in the Battle of Britain. In an unprecedented gesture, the British government is to honor the memory of the young American hero by installing a plaque in Westminster Abbey, where the national heroes of England are buried.

BRITAIN ASKS WHY HUNS ARE IN RUMANIA

Ambassador To Leave Bucharest If Explanation Not Given

BUCHAREST, Oct. 8.—Sir Reginald Hoare, the British minister, today asked the Rumanian government to "elucidate the situation arising out of the apparent intention of garrison German troops at strategic places in Rumania."

In British official circles it was said that the reply of the Rumanian government to this inquiry would decide whether the British minister would remain in Bucharest or withdraw.

These informants said "an intolerable situation" has arisen for the British community in Rumania because of what they describe as ill treatment of British subjects, several of whom have been arrested recently.

The possibility was discussed that the entire British legation staff and all British residents might be instructed to leave Rumania if the reply of Gen. Ion Antonescu's government is not satisfactory.

The staff of the British legation numbers 60. The British colony totals between 330 and 400.

Wireless Station Damaged By Fire

MONTREAL, Oct. 8—Equipment valued at $15,000 was destroyed early Monday when fire broke out in a short-wave transmitting station at the Royal Canadian Air Force No. 1 Wireless Training School. The station is situated some distance behind the school, which was never threatened by the fire. The blaze was extinguished in a half hour by firemen.

SASKATCHEWAN FARMERS' DEBT TERMS EASED

Repayment Period Broadened To 13 Years Instead Of 10

REGINA, Oct. 8—To meet the emergent situation occasioned by crop marketing, farmers' debt compromises effected under orders of the boards of review in Saskatchewan will be based on a repayment period of 13 years, instead of the ten year period hitherto prevailing, the new policy to begin with the year 1941.

Making the foregoing announcement Tuesday Chief Justice J. T. Brown, chairman of the boards of review, stated the adjustments will be made in two steps, one covering the next three years and the other for the ensuing ten years. On the assumption that the wheat marketing situation is not likely to clear up for the next three years.

NEW TERMS

Under the new policy the board's orders will be based on the following terms:

For the next three years, the debtor will be called upon to keep and eventually deliver to the creditor one-third of the crop, less the current taxes.

For the ensuing ten years, the debtor will be pledged to repay outstanding balance under a ten year extension on the board's usual terms.

These "usual" terms provide for repayment of three per cent of the principal in each of the first three years, five per cent of the principal in each of the next three years, seven per cent of the principal in each of the following three years and the balance in the final year, with annual interest payments.

Motorman Wards Off Assailant In Robbery Attempt

CALGARY, Oct. 8—Street railway motorman Ronald Brown suffered a slight cut on the back of his head when he was slugged by a soldier in an attempted robbery last night. The soldier escaped when Brown fought him off.

The soldier got on the street car in Sunnyside and went to the back of the car. While climbing the Sunnyside hill, the tram suddenly stalled. Brown went around to the back and found the trolley off, and while attempting to fix it he was attacked from behind by the soldier, who had followed him off the car. The trolley rope had been cut to disable the car.

SIX ORDNANCE PLANTS FOR U.S. NAVY IN WEST

British United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—The navy is surveying sites in the middle west for a chain of six ordnance plants costing $115,000,000.

Capts. David F. Dusey and Theodore D. Ruddock, Jr., have visited Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Tennessee and other states to obtain data on possible locations. They are expected to recommend choices to Secretary Frank Knox.

Navy officials said no definite sites can be chosen until the survey is finished. It was indicated in testimony to congress recently that the average plant would involve about 20 acres of land, and employ about 2,000 workers. Under the tentative program, the federal government would supply the funds and plants would be operated by private industry.

The plans call for a $15,000,000 powder plant, at least one gun factory, and other establishments for the manufacture of optical equipment, gun parts, fuses and other materials.

Nine Men Alleged To Have Conspired To Defraud Public

MONTREAL, Oct. 8—Nine men, five residents of New York, one from Toronto and three from Montreal, were indicted Monday on a charge of conspiring to defraud the public through illegal importation of Dominion of Canada bonds from United States.

The men were charged originally with importing Dominion of Canada bearer bonds without having obtained a permit from the foreign exchange control board and with conspiring to import these bonds into Canada illegally. Under the new charges, the five New Yorkers are liable to extradition. The original charge is not provided for in Canada's extradition treaty with the United States.

The New Yorkers are Hans S. Fiegl, Herb Goldner, Alex Kramer, S. Bernard and S. Solomon. The four Canadians are Ernest S. Dallman, A. W. Glover and George Rigler of Montreal, and Rolf Pichon of Toronto.

Goering Sent Kind Remembrances To Col. C. A. Lindbergh

United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—A Nazi informant said that reports that German troops, occupying Charles A. Lindbergh's home on Illiec Island off the French coast, had found a photograph of Field Marshal Hermann Goering inscribed "in friendly remembrance," were "too unimportant to concern us."

"Obviously the reports were spread with the purpose of causing Lindbergh difficulties," the informant said.

NINE PUPILS NOW REFUSE SALUTE FLAG

City Solicitor Seeks Information On Similar Cases In Ontario

Total of nine children have refused to salute the flag during patriotic exercises in city schools it was disclosed Tuesday when R. S. Sheppard, superintendent of schools for the Edmonton Public School Board, reported four more cases of non-compliance with the school board's order.

Refusal to salute the flag occurred in three schools, and parents in all but one case informed board officials that they had instructed their children to refrain from saluting the flag on religious grounds.

A girl in a lower grade took it upon herself to refuse, parents informed her school principal.

INVESTIGATE PROCEDURE

City officials are investigating procedure for laying of charges against the parents of the children refusing to salute the flag.

City Solicitor T. E. Garside, K.C., has written to the Kitchener, Ont., officials seeking specific details of two cases in that city in which prosecution was made and convictions registered against parents of children refusing to salute the flag. Sentence on the persons convicted was deferred for one week or until such time as federal authorities decide whether to intern them.

SEEKS TEXT

Mr. Garside has asked for the actual text of the charges in the Kitchener case, the section of the Defence of Canada Regulations the charges were laid under and an outline of the evidence in the cases. He also seeks information whether the Kitchener school board had the legal authority to pass a resolution making the flag salute compulsory.

George B. Henwood, K.C., deputy attorney-general for Alberta, said Tuesday his department will not take action until it received an official request or reference on the matter from the city.

FUNERAL RITES FOR HARCOURT HELD TUESDAY

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for the late Prof. George Harcourt, 76, former horticulturist with the faculty of agriculture at the University of Alberta, who died in the city Sunday.

Well-attended by friends and business associates, the services were led by Rev. D. C. Ramsey in Howard and McBride's funeral chapel. Interment took place in the Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Prof. Harcourt had been prominent in city horticultural circles for twenty years, and was largely responsible for the laying out of the grounds of the university. He was deputy minister of agriculture from 1905 until 1915 when he accepted the post in the horticulture department of the University of Alberta. This position he held until he was superannuated in 1936.

Prof. Harcourt was a graduate of the University of Toronto.

Blast Victim In Fair Condition In City Hospital

Victim of a gasoline explosion in his store at Holden last Saturday, R. C. Ledingham passed a fairly good night at the Royal Alexandra Hospital where he is being treated for severe burns, it was reported Tuesday.

Ledingham's clothing was set ablaze, causing extensive burns to the body and face, when a quantity of gasoline he was pouring into a container, in some manner exploded.

The hardware store, owned by Mr. Ledingham and several other buildings on the main street of Holden were completely destroyed by the ensuing fire.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the war effort of Canadian artists?

ANSWERS

DICK MacDONALD, radio announcer: I think the Canadian artists of screen, radio, drama and song are doing very good work, from the standpoint of their contribution to benefit performances, and in many instances the donation of part of their earnings to war-work funds. They, with many others, are setting splendid examples in their unstinting contribution of talent.

* * *

PATRICIA CONROY, stenographer: In Edmonton, the local artists are giving of their talent to a great many benefit concerts and programs, and I am sure that the same is true of the artists throughout the Dominion.

* * *

EVELYN LANE, clerk: Giving of their talent for special war-time performances, the Canadian actors and singers are aiding both in drawing immense crowds to the benefit affairs, and through entertainment aiding in the steadily high morale of the people.

* * *

HELEN SMITH, clerk: If the artists in other parts of Canada are as splendid as those in Edmonton in donating their time and talent to provide entertainment and to augment the receipts of benefit programs, then they are setting a grand example to the people of the Dominion.

GIANT CARROT AT JOE'S HOME IS 5½ POUNDS

It looked more like a family banquet than a carrot when young Joe Hutton, 12, and his pals brought it into The Bulletin office Monday just about quitting time, but Joe said it was a carrot and he should know, on account of he dug it out of his own garden, see?

The gigantic vegetable weighing 5½ pounds, shaped something like a torpedo and just about as heavy, was blasted from the earth Sunday along with some smaller relatives, and as Joe says, will probably make several good meals.

Joe, who attends Grade 7 at Grandin school, was very proud of his catch and hugged it like a mother. He expects to get even bigger carrots next year, and from the same place too, the garden of the Sutton home at 10921 100 avenue.

QUICK ACTION IS ASKED FOR PLANT ORDER

Council To Consider Immediate Purchase Of Power Equipment

A special meeting of city council has been called for Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. to discuss a request made by W. J. Dick, recently appointed representative of the Allied War Supplies Corporation, that the city immediately place orders for the purchase of equipment needed for the $730,000 power plant extension.

On Monday Mayor John W. Fry called aldermen to meet Mr. Dick with the city commissioners to discuss his proposal, and following his submission it was decided to hold a special meeting of council to deal with the matter.

Mr. Dick urged the immediate placing of the order for this material to safeguard power supply for the ammonia-nitrate plant which is being erected at Calgary, commissioners stated.

He said the corporation would do everything possible to speed up the delivery of the turbo-generator which will likely be ordered from a British firm.

The corporation will also endeavor to speed up the delivery of the boiler and other material needed for this plant extension.

Through The Mill

"I never dreamed I'd roused his ire,

And the fistic blitzkrieg staged by his assailant was described in those exact words, "just like a ball of fire," by the complainant in an assault case in police court Tuesday morning.

As a matter of fact the witness was so vivid in his description of the fiery qualities of the assault, that the crown prosecutor stopped to inquire of him: "Are you sure you wern't hit by lightning?"

* * *

It seems that witness and the accused, with two young women for company, had gone on a nocturnal truck ride through scenic sections of the city.

Witness admitted drinking "one beer." His lady companion said she had no recollecton of this solitary glass of hops but vividly recalled "Scotch, rye and wine." At any rate accused said he had been assisting one of the ladies, who was slightly ill, when accused struck like a bolt through the early morning haze.

* * *

The return from the mists of a dream-world had taken place on a hospital cot during the late afternoon, according to the complainant. Facial scars and a dislocated hip had resulted from the attack, he told the cadi.

A very indignant young lady hotly denied this story and said that accused had struck witness because he had called her a "lot of terrible names."

A young man charged with stealing $30 from the person of another fellow received an adjournment until October 15. Defence counsel asked that bail be set at a reasonably low figure as the charge was not "very serious." "Perhaps not. But the law provides for a sentence up to 15 years," the court reminded the solicitor.

Bail was set at $2,000 on two or more sureties.

Intensified Drive For Spitfire Fund Planned This Week

Urgency of a final, concentrated drive for the Edmonton Spitfire Fund was emphasized at a meeting of the Spitfire committee Monday night in the Civic block, when a special campaign for this week was mapped out.

"The smaller donors have come through nobly," Mayor John W. Fry, chairman of the meeting said, "and many of the larger firms and businessmen have made good donations, but we feel we must make a concerted effort to personally contact the businessmen and firms who have not yet been seen."

"If we contact these people and if the urgency of the appeal is properly presented," said R. V. MacCosham, "I am certain many will make large donations and others who already have contributed will increase their contributions."

IMMEDIATE ACTION

The meeting organized immediately into sections of committeemen who will work singly and in pairs to make direct contacts for larger donations.

They will report daily and plan to have the intensive drive completed by the end of the week.

"The women's sections have come through 100 per cent," said Mayor Fry. "The small donors also are doing well. This last drive must be pushed and we hope it will be completed this week."

"The need for speed and the urgency must be explained," said Mr. MacCosham. "Edmonton, England, has been bombed heavily and so finds it cannot make good its pledge to give a Spitfire to the British government. They have asked us for help. We must, as a matter of pride raise enough to buy them a whole Spitfire—not just part of one. The plane costs $25,000."

COMMITTEEMEN VIE

Members of the committee spontaneously volunteered to begin canvasses early Tuesday and to report their results nightly. More than that, they announced their own donations and began putting each other "on the spot" for substantial sums.

One man who already has donated $100 from his business doubled his contribution on condition a committeeman across the table would meet it with an equal amount. He was immediately taken and they pledged $200 each.

The mayor reported that 1,500 lists had been sent out to firms for employees' donations. The committee asked the secretary, Robert English, to contact these firms and make sure that some person in each place was made responsible for circulating the lists and returning them to committee headquarters at the Civic block.

"I would like to see this thing done quickly," said E. T. Love. "I would even like to have seen the city send a cheque for the whole amount from the treasury and then make up the amount by public subscription. I believe the city might make a substantial contribution."

"The city now is supplying all clerical work, stationery and other expenses in this campaign," the mayor said. "If the city itself were to pay out the full amount, it would be taken from the taxpayers, who are a small section of the population. By a public appeal we reach everybody. Of course, with regard to a donation from the city treasury I cannot speak for the whole council."

"I think the public appeal is the fairer way, as it reaches a larger proportion of the citizens," said F. G. Winspear.

John Michaels suggested that permission might be obtained from the national defence department to stage an air show as a climax to the campaign. This was taken under advisement.

The committee received an offer from Major R. R. Pointer, officer commanding the 18th Forestry Company, and Mike Cutcher, physical instructor of the unit, to stage a first class boxing and wrestling show for the fund, provided the Empire theatre could be secured.

Spitfire Fund At $10,000 Mark Now

Contributions to the fund took on added momentum Tuesday, sending the total zooming to $10,000. Chief amongst the contributions received were Hudson's Bay Co. Ltd., $200; Ukrainian National Federation and National Barber school, $24; staff of the Alberta Liquor Control board, $26.90; proceeds of whist drive and dance in Cromdale and Bellevue districts, $60; Smeltzer and Co. and staff, $15; Church of the Four Square Gospel, $5.75; W. H. Clark Co. Ltd. $25; staff of W. H. Clark Co. Ltd., $16; E. N. Spalton, Winnipeg, formerly of Ogilvie Flour Mills here, $50; proceeds of dance staged by women of the Oliver, Patricia, Belmont and Horse Hills districts, $118.35; University Hospital staff, $92.86.

The pupils of the Queen's Avenue school brought in their third donation to the fund—$3.50—procured from the sale of empty bottles.

Nazi Bombs Batter But Don't Scare "Battler"

German bombs may batter barricades and crumple masonry, but they are falling far short of daunting the spirit of "Battling" Harold McMasters, well-known Edmonton athlete who is at present serving with the Edmonton Regiment overseas.

In a letter from "Somewhere in England," written to a friend in The Bulletin office, Harold desires this newspaper to give additional proof of the fact he is still very much alive. (Some weeks ago The Bulletin published a story exploding persistent and widely-circulated rumors to the effect that McMasters had been killed.)

In his letter McMasters states: "I have not even fired my rifle, although there is heavy gunfire and bombs dropping.

"There was only one bad day so far and that was on August 18, a Sunday, when Jerry took a power dive at us and there were some reports that a few were killed and wounded, but none of the Edmonton Regiment have been hit."

After asking to be reminded to all friends on The Bulletin staff and Sports Editor Jack Kelly in particular, Harold further states: "I'll always be on top, for a good soldier never lies down, and Jerry does not know my number. I love the army. It may be a long time before we come back but when we do we will know we have done our duty."

ELECTION POT WARMS UP AS PLANS TALKED

Citizens' Committee, Progressives Canvass Their Possibilities

Edmonton's municipal political pot started simmering in earnest Tuesday as Citizens' Committee and progressive groups canvassed prospects for the November municipal election.

The Citizens' Committee nomination group is now considering between 15 to 20 names for its slate for the expeted seven vacancies on the aldermanic board, and will meet early this week for further consideration of their slate.

PROGRESSIVE GROUPS

The progressive groups have been meeting to form a united front against the Citizens' Committee candidates and it is anticipated that they will have candidates in the field for the mayoralty, aldermanic and school board.

Rumor is connected with the names of Ex-Ald. H. D. Ainlay, B.A., Edmonton school teacher; Orvis A. Kennedy, former Social Credit M.P. for East Edmonton, and Ex-Ald. Elisha East as likely candidates for the mayoralty.

Candidates for the aldermanic board in the progressive groups, according to current political gossip, are W. H. Miller, president of the Canadian Labor Party, ex-Ald. Guy Patterson, ex-Ald. Rice Sheppard, and two of the three aspirants for the mayoralty.

DECIDE TO RUN

Ald. D. A. Grout has signified that he will be a candidate for the mayoralty, and Peter Glassman has announced his intention of running as an Independent for the aldermanic board.

E. C. Fisher is reported to be a possible aldermanic candidate. Mr. Fisher stated he had been approached by a number of friends to seek election. He has made no decision yet, however.

Forestry Corps Up To Strength: Experts Enlist

The 19th Company, Canadian Forestry Corps, C.A.S.F., has passed its required strength of six officers and 195 other ranks, according to an announcement made Tuesday.

The corps was ordered mobilized only three weeks ago and was partially aided in reaching its objective by the enlistment of several new men from the Peace River country where Lieut.-Col. Louis Scott, D.C.M., is recruiting.

The unit is largely made up of experienced bushmen and men familiar with the lumber industry. Twenty such companies are being formed across Canada, the 19th representing Alberta.

The men will be housed in four new huts under construction and which will be ready in ten days.

Wants Paving

ALFRED FARMILO, secretary of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council, who moved a resolution asking the city to pave 111 avenue west from 102 to 127 streets, and to improve the roadway between the Royal Alexandra hospital and the Nurses' Home, at a meeting of the Council in the Labor hall.

TRADES GROUP ASKS CITY TO SURFACE ROADS

In a resolution moved by Alfred Farmilo, council secretary, a resolution requesting the city to pave or resurface 111 avenue west from 102 to 127 streets, and improve the roadway from the Royal Alexandra hospital to the nurses' residence was passed at a meeting of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council in the Labor hall Monday.

The executive committee reported on the new minimum rate of the gas company put into effect in September, and it was agreed that the new system would benefit the average consumer. A request that the executive investigate the painting contract at the Empire Air Training huts was made on the grounds that the present setup was unfair to the painters' union in that laborers were working for less than should be the case.

Mr. Farmilo announced that the Alberta trades and labor convention would be held in Lethbridge November 8.

"Labor conditions throughout Canada" was the topic of an address by J. Burr, international representative of the steam and operating engineers, Hamilton, Ont., at the meeting.

BRITISH CAN DEFEND ROCK SPEAKER SAYS

Dr. Bertram Thomas, Explorer, Addresses Canadian Clubs Here

The immediate upshot of entry by Spain into the war would mean big developments in the Mediterranean situation and in Morocco, but the British are confident they could hold Gibraltar in any eventuality, Dr. Bertram Thomas, writer, explorer and for many years in the British political service in the Middle East, told the men's and women's Canadian Clubs in a luncheon address Tuesday.

Dr. Thomas went to Morocco three years ago to find a peaceful place to write, he said. When he left with his six-year-old daughter, immediately after the British fleet had attacked the French fleet at Oran, the bulk of the country had been declared enemy-occupied territory and was beginning to feel the pinch of the British blockade.

Britain, France and Spain and, to a less extent, other powers, all have interests in Morocco. The "strategic" interest is common to all while France and Spain have colonial interests, with their protectorates.

BRITISH CAN DEFEND ROCK SPEAKER SAYS

[illegible] of Tangier, [illegible] across the strait from the rock of Gibraltar. This zone has been kept unfortified by international agreement. The speaker sketched the history of Morocco and the establishment of the international zone.

In this war, he said, the Moors in French Morocco stood by France and the French [illegible] sent a steady stream of men and supplies to France. Residents of Spanish Morocco remained indifferent due to their Spanish allegiance but Islamic [illegible] pro-Allied [illegible] of Nazism.

When France collapsed, Spain sent troops which occupied Tangier but they agreed to respect the Tangier administration and the lives of all nationals. They have kept this agreement. This action, he said, gave umbrage to Italy as it took her by surprise, but it is possible it was done with German knowledge as a curb on Italian expansion in the Mediterranean.

The French protectorate, now controlled by a German-Italian commission and, at the moment disarmed, there were 280 of the latest type United States warplanes lying unpacked in the docks at Casablanca.

"In revenge for the British attack on French ships at Oran," he said, "two French planes [illegible] off from Morocco and [illegible] Gibraltar but, to their credit, the pilots deliberately dropped their bombs short of their target." Other bombing raids have taken place since.

FRENCH STAGGERED

French people in the protectorate were staggered by the orders of capitulation from France, he said, and, if given a local lead, would have repudiated the armistice terms and carried on at the side of the Allies.

Morocco, he said, is now under the blockade. The Moslem sympathy is still pro-ally but they have an old Arab proverb, "Better kiss the hand you cannot strike off."

Britain's problem is protection of the Straits of Gibraltar, he said. Spain has ideas of widening her African empire but Italy, though she would welcome Spain's entry into the war, would wish her ambition curbed as she doesn't want her own Mediterranean power hampered.

Spaniards in Morocco are now silent, he said, and most of them belong to Franco's Falangist party, although they were against Franco during the Spanish civil war. Their allegiance to the Falangist party, he felt, would not survive the end of concentration camps in Spain.

ANOTHER CIVIL WAR

"If Spain enters the war and loses it," he said, "another civil war may be in store for her. [illegible] immediate [illegible] of her entry would mean big developments in the Mediterranean situation and in Morocco."

In talks with British gunners at Gibraltar, he had found them completely confident they could defend the rock despite the new tactical situation caused by aerial warfare.

Famed Explorer Knew Lawrence

The famed "Lawrence of Arabia" was a friend of his and once wrote a foreword for his book, "Arabia Felix," said Dr. Bertram Thomas who arrived in Edmonton Tuesday morning to address the Men's and Women's Canadian Club.

Dr. Thomas has spent his life in the political service of the British government in the Middle East and was the first Englishman to cross the south Arabian desert.

He has become especially familiar with this situation through his residence of the past two or three years in Tangier, Africa.

After Dr. Thomas crossed the Arabian desert, he received a letter of congratulation from Lawrence, who told him this had been his own ambition. "When I wrote my book," said Dr. Thomas, "I got Lawrence to read the manuscript and dot the i's and cross the t's. He also wrote a foreword for it. Lawrence used to get Bernard Shaw to read his manuscripts."

Dr. Thomas has been British representative in Transjordania, finance minister to the Sultan of Muskat and Oman, and political officer in Mesopotamia.

AIRPLANE CREW BOARD DINGHY REACH SAFETY

LONDON, Oct. 8—The crew of a Royal Air Force bomber with a Canadian in command escaped drowning when they made a forced landing near the British coast after a successful attack on Berlin. They took to their dinghy and reached safety after first paddling it, propelling it with their hands, and then swimming behind it to push it along.

The Canadian, awarded the D.F.C. recently, said the crew found themselves in difficulties off the Frisian Islands and found they would have to come down on the sea.

"We lightened the aircraft as much as possible by jettisoning all surplus weight and nursing the engine," said the airman whose name cannot be disclosed because of R.A.F. regulations.

"We hoped to find a convoy and come down somewhere near a ship but no ship was sighted. In the meantime, we were getting nearer to England. Soon we saw the coast and our hopes ran a little higher but unfortunately both engines spluttered and then stopped."

The Canadian pancaked on to the water and landed a quarter of a mile from the coast. The navigator and the rest of the crew had launched the dinghy by the time he managed to scramble out of the cockpit.

"It was just as well the navigator had left his position because when we hit the water, which was rather like hitting concrete, the front decks were smashed and water just rushed into the aircraft," he said.

"It did a kind of submarine dive and then came up again. We were soon aboard our dinghy and reached shore in about 45 minutes."

Climbing To Safety

Some of the 64 members of the rescued crew of the British freighter Saint Agnes are climbing up the ropes [illegible] as they leave their [illegible] American Export liner Excalibur. The Excalibur was [illegible] miles off Lisbon when it received an SOS from the doomed British freighter.

New Jap Minister To Canada Arrives En Route To Ottawa

VANCOUVER, Oct. 8—Seigiro Yashizawa, newly appointed minister to Canada, arrived here Monday en route to Ottawa where he will replace Baron S. Tomii, recently recalled to Tokyo.

The minister said he could not discuss political questions, but added there was a feeling of quite natural resentment in Japan over the impending United States embargo on scrap metal.

"Scrap iron is required for [illegible] manufacture of [illegible]," he declared.

"I don't think anybody in Japan wants war with the United States although there may be a section which feels it is inevitable," he added.

Draw In Chess

MONTREAL, Oct. 8—Maurice Fox and Dudley Ledain, both of Montreal, failed Monday to break their deadlock in the Canadian chess championship when they played each other to a draw. The result left them with 2½ points each.

In other matches played Monday night, [illegible] of Regina defeated Therien, Quebec; Philippe Brunet of Ottawa won from Brisebois of Montreal; and Marcel Dion of Quebec defeating Charles Smith of Montreal. A match between F. Wren of Halifax and Joseph Rauch of Montreal was adjourned.

Fifty Survivors From Torpedoed Ship Are Landed

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8—Fifty survivors of a torpedoed British freighter arrived here Monday and told how they were saved by the merest chance after their convoy, under war orders not to pause for rescue lest a submarine strike again, passed on through the darkness.

The [illegible] seamen were left drifting in three boats with only emergency provisions when their vessel, the Corrientes, was struck off the English coast shortly before midnight Sept. 25.

"It was a miraculous escape," said Captain Thomas Stewart, of Glasgow, master of the Corrientes. "Not a man was killed or injured."

Restrict Sales

LONDON, Oct. 8—Henceforth only persons engaged in "work of vital national importance" will be allowed to buy new automobiles, the ministry of transport announced Monday. The step was said to have been taken to increase the number of cars available for export.

Dog Is Mascot

AT A BRITISH PORT, Oct. 8—A German dog, once the pet of the captain of the Nazi prison ship Altmark, now is the mascot of the ward room of a British warship. The dog is savage to all except a British lieutenant. The lieutenant rescued him when the Altmark was boarded in a Norwegian fjord.

Take Ships

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Ministry of Shipping announced last night the government has decided to requisition coastal and short-trip sea liners effective Oct. 15. The minister of shipping, in a meeting with owners' representatives, explained the scheme generally will follow that worked out for the requisition of deep sea liners early in the war.

Today's Communiques

British

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The text of air ministry communique issued Tuesday:

"During the night attacks were made by the Royal Air Force on military objectives in the Berlin area and on communications in various parts of Germany.

"Other attacks were made on the channel ports and on airdromes in German-occupied territory."

LONDON, Oct. 8—The air ministry and ministry of home security issued the following communique Tuesday:

"There were widespread raids over Great Britain during the night. Many bombs were dropped in London and in the suburbs and in towns in northeast England but reports so far received indicate that the damage and casualties caused in these areas were not heavy considering the scale of the attacks.

"Bombs were also dropped in a number of other districts in England and at a few places in Scotland and Wales.

"An industrial plant in one town in southeast England was damaged but otherwise little damage was done and casualties were very few.

"Later reports of yesterday's air fighting show that 27 enemy aircraft were destroyed and not 28 as previously announced. Sixteen of our fighters were lost but the pilots of 10 of them are safe."

Yesterday Royal Air Force bombers attacked barge concentrations on the Dutch coast and shipping at Le Havre.

"In the course of a routine patrol in the English Channel a coastal command aircraft shot down an enemy [illegible].

"Last night more successful attacks on military objectives in Germany were carried out on three main power stations in Berlin. A large fire was caused at the Tempelhof [illegible]. Several industrial plants [illegible] were attacked [illegible]. Other forces of aircraft heavily bombed the Fokker works at Amsterdam.

"Attacks also were delivered on the naval docks at Wilhelmshaven,

German

"Stronger battle plane units attacked London yesterday in retaliatory action and scored numerous heavy calibre hits on rail facilities west of the Thames bend, as well as on the commercial west India docks.

"Fighting planes, in rolling waves throughout the night, dropped bombs of medium and heavy calibre on traffic points, industrial centres and other objectives in the British capital.

"Numerous fires were started in the region of the city. Especially great fires were observed during night raids on Manchester, Liverpool and Edinburgh. Mining of British ports continued.

"Last night British planes entered Germany at several places. Berlin was their main objective. Defence measures forced the majority to turn off, while part reached the Reich's capital. Bombs again hit several hospitals, apartment houses and storehouses, as well as railway tracks, causing property damage in some places. Numerous dead and wounded among the population must be deplored.

(The three main power stations of Berlin and the Tempelhof airdrome were the principal targets in the German capital, the British air ministry announced.)

"Two British planes approaching were downed by anti-aircraft defences of the capital. The enemy yesterday lost 32 planes. Thirteen of our own are missing."

Only one R.A.F. bomber failed to return from last night's raids. German losses over Britain yesterday were 27 planes. Sixteen British fighters were lost.)

on the goods yards at Hamm, Soest, [illegible] and Osnabrueck and [illegible].

"Ports and shipping at Lorient, Cherbourg, Dieppe, Boulogne, Calais, Gravelines, Dunkerque, Ostend, Zeebrugge and Rotterdam and the gun emplacements at Cap Gris Nez were bombed.

LINER BRINGS FEW CHILDREN 50 SOLDIERS

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Oct. 8—A huge liner, carrying several hundred passengers, including a few refugee children and a number of air force men, docked here Monday night. The ship stopped previously at an east coast Canadian port after the Atlantic crossing and some of her 1,500 passengers disembarked there. The air force men were believed to have come to Canada to complete their training under the British Commonwealth air plan.

Also aboard were 50 to 60 Canadian soldiers returning from England because of ill health. None of the soldiers, among whom was Cliff Armitage of Calgary, was wounded, a spokesman said.

A passenger said there were about 100 airmen aboard and that they were coming to Canada to be trained as pilot officers.

Canadians Sail Ship To Montreal When Crew Strikes

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 — Fourteen Canadian seamen took charge of the Netherlands merchant freighter, Prins Willem III, last night as it steamed out into Lake Michigan with its original crew of 18 Hollanders virtual prisoners.

The 2,800-ton boat had been anchored here since June 27, when the entire Netherlands crew, except the captain and steward, refused to sail back to war-torn Europe through mine-infested waters on an unconvoyed merchant ship.

Capt. W. P. C. Helsdingen said the boat's destination is Montreal and that he assumed the Netherlands crew members would be interned there unless they changed their minds about working.

The Canadian crew, hired in Montreal, was furnished under an agreement reached between the Oranje Lines, owners of the boat, and the Canadian government.

First Lady Of Canada Outlines Work Of Canadian Women In War In Luncheon Address

MONTREAL, Oct 8—Princess Alice told Montreal women Monday of the importance of the role of Canadian women in the war effort. In Montreal on a two-day formal visit with the Governor-General, she described a few of the "grim facts we have got to face," in an address at a luncheon meeting of the Women's Canadian Club.

Princess Alice talked of the personal needs of Canada's fighting men to which women must see, of welfare and educational work which has to be carried out despite the war, and of the plight of French refugees in England.

When she started to speak, Princess Alice said that if she had "shortcomings" as a public speaker, it was because she had been "born in the days when children were meant to be seen and not heard."

FIRST DUTY

Princess Alice said the first duty of women during war time is "providing our fighting men with all the personal comforts we can."

"The second kind of work and no less important, lacks all glamor and romance. It is care for the needy and the aged at home and for the education of our children."

She said a "cause crying out for help" was that of French refugees in England. "Our own men must come first . . . but the plight of the French refugees is a tragic one. The problem of clothing and feeding is great.

TO AID ALLIES

"French soldiers, sailors and airmen are fighting side by side with our men. These men have no one to care for their comfort. They are our allies.

"If ever there was a time when we should be their allies, it is now," Princess Alice declared.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been married two years and have a baby girl. My husband is good and kind to me, but I am very unhappy because he no longer tells me he loves me and hardly ever kisses me or pays me a compliment. When I ask him why he never pets me any more he just laughs and says "that is kid stuff." I am still attractive and I keep myself well dressed and looking as pretty as I possibly can, but he just doesn't notice me any more. What can I do to make him realize I am still the girl he once made violent love to and swore he would never forget, no matter how long we were married? Can the thrill of married life be worn off in such a short time as two years?

MRS. M. S.

Answer—When I read a letter like this one—and I get thousands upon thousands of similar ones—I don't know which I think is the greater fool—the husband or the wife. Certainly the wife shows that she has the mentality of a child who expects to live entirely upon lollipops and who howls and cries when she isn't daily stuffed upon them, and who considers herself ill-used when she is offered wholesome, adult food.

And assuredly the husband displays a lack of common sense and prudence when he does not hand out to his wife the sweet talk she craves and that would make her happy and contented.

Nothing is so cheap as words, and if a few compliments will oil the domestic machinery and keep it running without friction, a man may well apply them where they will do the most good.

Also, a man who marries a woman afflicted with what the psychologists call "infantilism" may well reflect that she was his pick among all the sensible women he knew, and that inasmuch as he led her to believe that he was a great lover, it is up to him to act the part.

To me these letters from women who never will grow up and accept the realities of life, but who expect always to live in a never-ending romance, are very pathetic.

No sane person can understand why an adult woman cannot grasp the fact that courtship and marriage are two distinct and different things; that in courtship a man tells his love, but in marriage he proves it by the work he does and the many sacrifices he makes for his wife. It is no sign that a man has ceased to love his wife because he doesn't hold her hand and kiss her and tell her how beautiful and wonderful she is.

And there are millions of women still outside of the asylums, with perfectly good, kind husbands who provide them with houses and fine clothes and cars, who still make themselves miserable because their husbands are just plain, sensible, unromantic business men, instead of Clark Gables. God help 'em.

MR. FAILING

Says Stomach Gas Kept Him In Distress!

"For a number of years I suffered all kinds of distress with my stomach," said Mr. Failing. "Practically every meal I ate brought on suffering."

"My food seemed to sour, then attacks of gas would come. Sometimes the pain was more than I could stand. The suffering would keep up long after I went to bed at night and I couldn't sleep. I felt worn out constantly.

"I lost interest in everything and was a discouraged person. A friend of mine had taken Mosby's Tonic and it helped him so much that he insisted that I get it and take it. Now I am glad he did, for it was JUST WHAT I HAD ALWAYS NEEDED. It cleared that distressful gas bloating from my stomach and now I never suffer with gas pains. I can go to bed and get a good sound night of sleep. It also had a splendid action on my bowels and has regulated them. I know this medicine is what people need who suffer like I did and I want to endorse it to EVERYONE."

20 Ingredients in This New Herbal Compound

MOSBY'S TONIC contains 20 ingredients, including 15 Roots and Herbs. It invigorates bowel, stomach, liver and kidney action as a carminative, laxative, cholagogue and diuretic, so that daily people write us they feel different all over. Beauty After Forty

By EDYTH THORNTON McLEOD

"Unaccustomed As I Am . . ."

If you are one of those women who speak often or maybe just occasionally before a group, wear only the simple things.

Are you often called upon to speak at your woman's club—school—civic or parent-teacher associations and do you feel that even the smallest audience is a perfect ogre? Well don't! Audiences are just people like yourself, eager and willing to listen—to you!

Know your subject, study your speech by running over at home what you want to say at the club where you are to speak. Unless you are that woman who is at home on her feet, that "born speaker"—always speak slowly, deliberately, calmly. This outer effect of calmness really feel calm. Stage fright is something that even a Barrymore has experienced. If you have frequent occasions to speak, if you are an ardent club member you will at some time have to appear on the platform.

Platform clothes should be dramatic in their simplicity. Select rich, dark colors for your costume. A deep plum or wine red is a relief from the ever-smart but conventional black. If the occasion permits, wear a long skirt, absolutely simple. A hat always lends poise and smartness. If you have to sit in full view of hte audience, a skirt with fullness is much more graceful than a narrow one. Be sure to stay away from fancy necklines, bows, buckles that sparkle, "busy" designs or braid and tassels, bracelets that clank. These wil detract the attention of the audience from you and your subject. There must be no straying curls to put into place. If you wear glasses, adjust them before you start to speak. A lorgnette is smart if you wil practice handling it properly.

Just as there is always "an apple for the teacher," there is an orchid for the speaker! But don't wear the gorgeous corsage, it's just too much!

Of course, you don't want to appear ungracious, but you do want to be your most poised and smartest self on the platform. Pin your corsage on your bag, which you may lay on a table or chair on the platform. Or fasten it to a fur scarf; you can drop the scarf casually on a chair when you rise to make your entrance. Or you can carry your flowers in your hand. They will add to your poise, something in your hand often puts you at your ease.

Have your hair done the day before the great event. Be sure that your make-up is perfect. Use a liquid powder foundation; it is cooling and it gives the skin a smooth mat finish. Your powder will adhere beautifully. If you flush easily, use no rouge. A touch of eye shadow should match or accent the color of your gown. If there are to be platform lights, use more make-up than is usual for you. You must not let your face "fade out" under the lights.

The gracious woman of 40-plus who must often speak in public should practice reading aloud at home. A well-modulated voice wins votes and convinces your audience!

Points For Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "While visiting the school, I noticed Mary sat back in the corner and joined very little in what was going on. We must work together to help her overcome her shyness and fear."

Teacher: "Your little Mary sits just that quietly when the children are here. I almost forget she is in the room."

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

No matter how finicky the appetite of the pre-school child—and most mothers are sure that he eats like a bird—the school child usually eats ravenously. One wonders the exact reason for this, since it seems such a common phenomenon.

Perhaps, it is because the school child has such a nice balance of hard play and then rest and then passive play. When he gets ready for a meal he isn't worn to a thread, as is the child who plays up to the moment when his mother's voice hails him home and then sits and stares at his plate, too tired to chew. And, if he isn't tired, he may be so nervously excited that he wants to continue to play instead of calmly setting himself to the business of eating.

Perhaps, it is because the school child never pieces between meals. The icebox and cookie jar are out of reach. He can't woo his mother with that devastating plea that he's hungry and he has to have something to eat, though she may have discovered by experience that when he takes a nibble of this and a swallow of that he views the following meal with a jaundiced eye. Nothing looks good and that, "I'm not hungry, now," drives his mother to distraction as he turns away from the good food he ought to eat.

The mother of the pre-school child might like to imitate the conditions which seem to work so well for the school child's appetite. She should bring him in at least a half hour before each meal and encourage him to play with his crayons or scissors, or clay or blocks, thus insuring that he sit down long enough to end his probable fatigue.

She should stiffen her resistance when he wants to eat between meals and remind herself that she does know best and because she does she is right to refuse his whining pleas.

If between-meal-foods do not wreck the child's appetite, then this warning is useless, but most mothers of pre-school children discover that the regular meals are attacked with greater zest, when nothing but water or possibly fresh fruit juices are given between them.

I shall be happy to send you my leaflet, "Diet from Two to Five Years," for a self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope. Send your request to Mrs. Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Myrtle Meyer Eldred will answer your questions about diet, general care and management of children if you will send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter to Mrs. Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine Department in care of this newspaper.

Minute Make-Ups

On rainy days you should be particularly careful of your make-up. For one thing, gray days are depressing and you should look your best, not only to raise your own spirits but to impress other people. This is the time to use waterproof make-up, since so many of us have discarded umbrellas in favor of rain hats or waterproof capes with hoods. Use more rouge and lipstick than you would in clear, bright weather, for the gray light takes much of the color out of cosmetics. This is a good time to substitute vaseline for mascara, since it waterproofs the eyelashes. Remember, too, that liquid powder adheres even when exposed to a downpour much better than dry powder. Make-up carefully the next time you start the day in drizzling weather and see how much more cheerful the day becomes.

Youngsters Need Plenty Of Fruit And Vegetables

Adolescent children need large supplies of vegetables. So does every hungry person who wants to achieve vigorous health. Your food budget must allow for four servings or more every day of vegetables or fruit.

Select a vegetable rich in vitamin C, such as cabbage, tomatoes, greens, turnips, rutabagas, for one of the vegetables. Also a yellow one rich in vitamin A and iron, such as carrots, yellow squash, yellow turnips and sweet potatoes. These are low cost sources of essential nutrients for sturdy youngsters. Dried beans, dried peas, peanuts and peanut butter are valuable low cost foods on the limited budget, too.

BAKED SQUASH WITH SAUSAGE

(Serves 4 to 6)

Wash and split squash lengthwise. Remove seeds and excess fibre. Shape sausage into cakes and fill squash cavities. Do not peel apples. Core and cut into rings. Place an apple ring on top of each sausage cake and sprinkle sparingly with nutmeg. Arrange squash sections in shallow pan with a little water in bottom. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for an hour, or until squash is soft. Baste frequently.

MOCK HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

(One cup)

One-half cup mayonnaise, 1/8 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 1-3 cup scalded milk.

Add mayonnaise, salt and pepper to scalded milk in top of double boiler. Beat with rotary beater until blended. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 3 or 4 minutes, or until mixture is thickened and smooth. Stir constantly while cooking. If too thick, add more scalded milk. Serve at once.

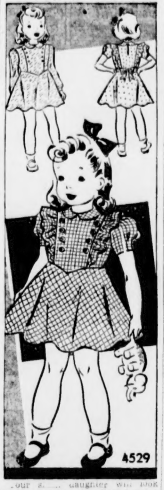
A Piquant Basque Style



Your s[illegible] daughter will look like her favorite story-book heroine in this captivating frock, Pattern 4529. Anne Adams has combined basque lines with pinafore details to make a really enchanting style for nursery or kindergarten. There are bodice panels at both front and back, and the front waistline forms a shallow point to meet the flaring bias skirt. Pinafore-type ruffles crisp out the bodice seams and may be either in contrast or matching fabric. The little collar would be gay in contrast too; so would the bodice, sleeves and sash. Have the sleeves in short puffs or long and full. And don't forget the bloomers or panties that accompany the pattern.

Pattern 4529 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, short sleeve dress, takes 2¼ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send your order to The Edmonton Bulletin Pattern Department, 60.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

So it's all settled and you're going to lose 20 pounds for Christmas but you also want a beautiful figure by that date, and that means you are going to slim a good three inches off the waistline, firm the midsection, and trim three to four inches off the hips.

Having been a bit lazy about your exercises for the past several months—or years—it will pay you to start gently. There's nothing to be gained by getting right into the spirit of the thing and keeping it up until you are exhausted. Two days later you will feel as if you had been riding muleback over the Rockies! Naturally, that would be the end of your exercise!

Take it easy. Start with just five minutes of limbering exercise for the first few days and gradually up it to ten. Then in a couple of weeks work up to twenty minutes a day.

Since you are probably not enthusiastic about this, you'd better make a habit of doing your exercise at a definite time evary morning. Then your conscience will hurt you when you miss it.

Stretch to limber up quickly: Lie on your back on the floor, and pull yourself slim through the middle as you stretch from tip to toe. Lying down exercises have their points—they take the weight off your feet and keep you in perfect posture.

To slim the waist, add a twist to the stretch. Swing the right leg across the left, touching toes to floor on the opposite side, then stretch until you feel a pull all along the right side. Repeat three times, rest and change sides.

It is very important to relax between exercises. In this way you avoid building up tension. With any strenuous exercise, it is best to shake the limbs loosely afterwards to rid the muscles of tension and to prevent stiffness.

To tone the muscular girdle while slimming the waistline, bring one knee to chest as you lie on the back on the floor, then, twisting at waist, touch kneepoint to the floor on the far side of the other leg. Hold for a second, return to beginning position and alternate sides, continuing for twelve counts. Relax.

Movement: Work the legs in a scissors action, keeping knees straight. Hold legs slightly off the floor for freedom of movement. Swing the legs slightly off the floor for freedom of movement. Swing the legs back and forth for twelve counts, rest, then perform twelve counts on the other side. Later you can swing 100 counts on each side, resting between each twenty-five counts.

When you exercise, bear in mind what you are trying to do and make each movement accurate.

What To Do

I expect to make a visit in a distant city shortly, and I know my hostess will be taking me around to see many historical spots, to the shops and various other places. On these trips we shall probably lunch or dine away from her home. Now who should pay the checks, my hostess or I? Of course, in her home, I would be her guest, but on these tours shall I act as I would at her table and leave the payments to her, or what is the proper thing?

MISS N. S. J.

Answer—I think you are going to be a very satisfactory guest, for it is always well to know beforehand just how to act in matters such as you have mentioned. Certainly your hostess will expect to take care of the checks for luncheon and dinner when you are out, but just as certainly she will not object if you insist on sharing the expenses at least for some of these meals away from her home. You might say when a trip is suggested that this is to be your treat and that you want to be hostess some of the time. You know of course, that having a house guest always entails some extra expense in a home, so it would be only kind and courteous for you to take care of some of the payments of the home.

Walk-Rite's "MARCH of FASHION"

YOUNG woman! I've some notions about you. I think, for instance, you've been very kindly used by the fashion designers this year, and I think it's high time you realized the fact. Should you need evidence I've a notion a a call at Walk-Rite's sportswear department will more than convince you that you can be smart though young, and smart though not an heiress.

* * *

I'VE a notion, too, you'll be pretty sick about things if you don't get a Walk-Rite Corduroy Suit. It's the sort of outfit that makes a gal preen with a sense of being well groomed and costs just $4.95 to $7.95. Then there is the Alpine Cloth Pinafore suit, in all the new colors of Fall at $5.95; and sport casuals at $5.95; and skirts and sweaters and sport jackets galore. I've a last notion you'll be pleased as punch about the styles and prices and just everything about Walk-Rite's sportswear showing this Fall.

* * *

YOU'VE got to be as smart as the very old dickens on the very outside this season and nothing fills the bill like a hooded, pony cloth Campus Coat from Walk-Rite at $14.95. Other Coats with fur trim are priced to heck and gone up to $35.

* * *

IF there are any signs of heavy financial weather ahead of you when you go shopping for these things, then I suggest you use the 12 pay plan.

THE AZTEC MYSTERY

By Murray Leinster

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SONNY HOLMAN, believing he has been defrauded of the Aztec mine, takes to holding up the mine's payrolls. JANET LAURIER, daughter of the man who holds legal title to the Aztec, comes to Moleville in an effort to stop Holman's activities.

She offers a reward for his capture, believing him at the bottom of some ore thefts as well as payroll robberies. In reality, TILFORD, the mine superintendent, and a cutthroat named GARCIA are behind the ore robberies.

Janet's mine guards, under orders to capture Holman, shoot his horse. Janet secretly has the animal doctored, intending to return it and plead with its owner to leave the country. Tilford plots to have her kidnapped by Garcia. As Garcia's men close in on her, she comes on Sonny Holman and they take refuge in his cave hide-out.

Meanwhile, a search party has been organized for Janet, and Tilford is made to lead the way. Sonny Holman, defending the cave, is wounded, but he and Janet get out through the back of the canyon, where they are menaced by mine guards after Sonny. They find themselves between hostile fires.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

JANET crawled into the saddle, holding fast to the horn as the stallion lay prone. He moved as if to arise with her.

"Lie still," she whispered, dry throated. "We've got to wait for your master, Gunpowder. Lie still!"

The reek of burnt powder came pungently to her nostrils. The firing seemed to be closer than ever. The four guards still left alive were being driven from boulder to boulder and from rock to rock by a storm of lead. They had reached the point where further retreat meant crossing the open space about the gateway Sonny had just blown in, and they hung on desperately, fighting like fiends to live.

And then a stone rattled close to Janet. Then another. It seemed as if they were dislodged by someone very near. Janet's one weapon was discarded. The recoil from the heavy calibre cartridge had wrenched her wrist and it was hopeless to try to use it. But it was with staring eyes and her breath coming in quick gasps that she waited.

When the actual movement came, however, it was not from the direction of the stones at all. They had been tossed to draw fire and give a chance for a close range shot from an unexpected angle. Janet saw Garcia's swarthy face, dead white beneath its olive and streaked with crimson where a bullet had grazed his temples. He peered cautiously around a slanting boulder.

Amazement deepened into a terrible fury as he gazed at her. "Ah," he purred, "eet was Sonny 'Olman who lef' here, eh? 'E hol's my gateway—pairhaps. But thees time I tek no chances. I die, maybe, but firs'—"

His revolver rose slowly. The man was wild with rage and terror, but rage was uppermost. He pointed the revolver at her heart while she clung nerveless to the saddle of her prone horse.

And suddenly there were explosions, deafening detonations, and Sonny's shrill whistle cutting through them. The black stallion scrambled upward with lightning quickness. With a leap he cleared the barrier of stone and was racing madly to his master across the open space, while columns of smoke and up-flung earth sprang into being on all sides of him. Janet, clinging wildly to the saddle horn, was thrown from her seat and her feet dragged upon the earth as the huge horse raced onward.

Sonny was back in the still smoking half-tunnel, squatting beside a thick wooden box, cigarette between his lips. He was snatching the wrapped sticks from the box and lighting the fuses already affixed, which he broke off from some central connection.

"Hurt?" he asked sharply as Gunpowder went past him. He flung the stick of dynamite and a detonation followed some twenty yards away.

"No!" cried Janet. "I'm all right."

Sonny waved her back and went down on hands and knees to the front of the package, dragging a repeating rifle with him.

"You fellers," he shouted. "Miss Laurier's guards! Make a break for here! I'll cover yuh as much as I can!"

On man started and got halfway before he crumpled. Garcia showed himself an instant, screaming curses. A second guard made the run and Sonny pumped lead to keep down the firing upon him. Garcia himself dropped the man. A trailing hand and arm, flung limply out of the space between two stones, told without words of the third remaining guard.

Gleason, with a cigarette in his mouth, stood up. A bullet struck him in the shoulder and spun him half around. He shook himself and walked deliberately on. He lurched again, and again went on. He was smiling a cold smile to himself. He was making for the rocks from which Sonny and Janet had escaped, and which now sheltered Garcia. His revolver was in his hand, but he did not use it. Fire flashed from the rocks. Gleason stopped stock still and then moved heavily forward once more.

Reeling and luching, he went squarely to the embrasure through which Garcia was pumping lead at him. He staggered as the bullets Garcia fired in terror tore their way through him. And then he emptied his gun deliberately inside.

He seemed to pause to survey what he had done, rocking on his feet. And then he slumped abruptly to the earth.

"I got t' hand it to him!" said Sonny softly, "he didn't cave in when they had the edge on him. He took the same he handed out."

He ran back to his case of dynamite, but there was suddenly no need. Every one of the bandits knew now that Garcia was dead. They knew that Sonny held the mouth of the passage to the strong place. They had seen and heard the dynamite explosions he had engineered, and knew he had unearthed the dynamite left by Garcia to blast the gateway shut in case of desperate necessity. And they had no longer anything to fight for.

Guns went hurtling through the air. Cries rent the sudden silence. The bandits had no longer a fortress to fight their way to. They had no longer a leader to drive them to the fight. And though they might be surrendering to be hanged their courage evaporated like water and they came out of their hiding places and groveled in the earth before anyone and everyone.

Sonny came out of the passageway and leaned against the wall. His face was the color of ashes and his teeth were clamped like iron. Janet came shakily with him. Thompson came forward, his face pale and grim.

"Well, Sonny?"

"I got me a alibi," drawled Sonny softly, "for hossthievin', rustlin', murderin' an' sheep herdin' since yesterday about five o'clock. Miss Laurier'll prove it for me. She's been with me all the time."

"Then—" Thompson stopped. "Hurt any, Miss Laurier?"

"Miss Laurier's all right," said Sonny stonily. "You as good as called me a rustler last time I saw yuh, Thompson."

"I'll call you a damned fool in a minute," said Thompson angrily, "if you don't take your hand away from that gun and shake hands with me! Do you realize that today's election day and that John Doe's probably sheriff of the county? The Cattlemen's Association is polling hot and heavy for you."

"Well, now," said Sonny uncertainly. "I'll admit I didn't know that." He put his hand unobtrusively upon a shoulder of stone to steady himself. "If I'm sheriff, though, I 'point you a deputy, Thompson, an' I'll take it kindly if you'll arrest that son of a gun Tilford. He sent Janet out here yesterday with a gun that wouldn't shoot, an' he tipped off Garcia she was comin', an' he's been raisin' hell generally. Some fellers that was in Garcia's gang, they tipped me off las' night."

"Tilford's got a bullet in him," said Thompson briefly, "and he's telling all he knows. Thinks he is going to die. He is—by rope."

Sonny was wavering on his feet and his grin was strained and unconvincing. "Hold 'im," he said firmly. For no discernible reason he began to pant a little, and his eyes were dulling. "He—he was in with them ore thieves an' I'm goin' t' make him give Janet back all he stole—stole—" He sagged suddenly and fought to keep upright.

Janet cried out as she ran to him. "You're hurt!"

"There—wan't no bullets could hurt me until you were safe," he gasped, "but—somebody nicked me a li'l while ago. An' I got some ribs busted—"

He collapsed abruptly, before even Thompson could catch him. And Thompson swore when he cut away Sonny's shirt and saw the pulped flesh where Sonny's ribs had caved in when the dynamite went off the night before. Janet wept bitterly, especially when a bloodstain led them to a bullet wound just a little above the hip.

Along The Path Of Invasion

Single file, in a thin line that winds over the crest of the hill and past the horizon, England's mechanized Northumberland Fusiliers roll over the rough British countryside, patrolling the paths of possible invasion. They are seasoned veterans who were among the first B. E. F. troops in Belgium last May.

It was also reported that Rear Admiral Thomas Hart, commander of the U.S. Asiatic fleet, has held five destroyers and a cruiser at Shanghai instead of allowing them to go to Manila as scheduled.

Picking Plane Parts From Garden

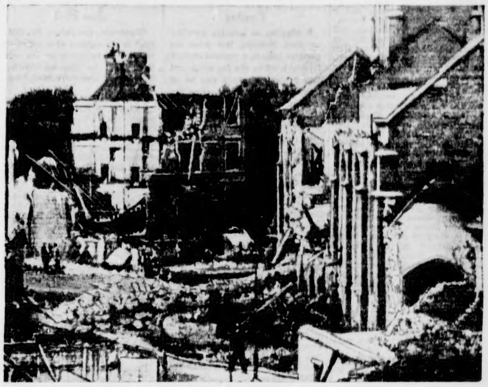
Mr. and Mrs. F. Fletcher of Surrey, pick up parts of the Nazi bomber, which landed in their garden, after being shot down by anti-aircraft fire. The bomber made a huge crater in the ground, demolished one house and missed a hospital, on its fateful plunge to earth. Unable to get to their shelter in time, the Fletchers crawled under the cellar stairs and luckily too, because the plane demolished their air raid shelter, which was situated under their garden.

U.S. Embassy Observers On Lookout

While the staff of the United States embassy works on in the building below their feet, these members of the embassy staff are assigned to the roof of the structure scanning the skies for German planes on air raids bent. Should the planes come dangerously close to the embassy the warning is given and safety is sought. The system of scouting was suggested to U.S. Envoy Kennedy by Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Ontario-Built Hampden Bomber Passes Official Tests

The first Hampden bomber to be made for the Royal Air Force in Ontario is shown here as it was put through its paces by J. H. "Red" Lymburner, inset. With a top speed of 265 miles per hour, the 20,000-pound bomber passed its official tests with flying colors. In action the Hampden carries a pilot navigator-bomber, wireless operator-gunner and a lower rear gunner. It mounts four machine guns and carries two 2,000-pound bombs or six 500-pound bombs in the "suitcase" along the bottom of the fuselage. The shape of the bomb carrier has earned the Hampden the nickname of the "Flying Suitcase" among air force men.



One Bomb Did This

Life Slows To A Walk In France

In conquered France, life in town and country alike moves haltingly. At left, above, a French farmer plods along behind his wheat-laden cart. Who will get his harvest, German censor did not disclose. NEGRO BASS HAS SUCCESS AT RECITAL

Spencer Sings To Capacity Crowd Monday—Concert Tuesday

Repeating his success of last year, 29-year-old Kenneth Spencer, American negro bass, presented a varied and delightful program of songs in the First Baptist church on Monday evening. Gaining the wrapt attention of the capacity audience at the outset, the young singer, with his contagious smile and happy informality of manner, maintained a high standard of performance throughout the evening. The recital was sponsored by members of the mission circle of the church, and arranged by Mrs. M. C. McCannell.

With good tone production, clear enunciation, and an easy but assured control of his voice, he sang a wide range of numbers, including oratorio, English airs, and Negro spirituals and folk songs.

He will present a second recital in the church on Tuesday evening.

At his best in songs of his native land, and songs in light vein, Mr. Spencer was somewhat disappointing in his presentation of the more emotional song. The disappointment seemed to be created through a fear of expressing great depth of feeling rather than an inability to do so.

WIDE APPLAUSE

"Evening Star" from Tannhauser, he sang with brilliance, and "Lungi Dal Caro Bene" by Secchi. In "It Is Enough" from the Elijah oratorio by Mendelssohn, he showed a religious humility of mood, and a vivid understanding of the theme.

"Trade Winds," by Charles, and "I'll Sail Upon the Dog Star" by Purcell was rendered with an alert tempo of adventure, and the traditional "Annie Laurie" received wide applause.

Creating the illusion of erratically swirling and nestling mist, alternately engulfing and denuding all it touched, his singing of "Nebbe" by Respegie was enchanting. In "None But the Lonely Heart," by Tschaikowsky, he was somewhat disappointing, and the singer seemed momentarily unsure of his voice control.

DELIGHTFUL HUMOR

In lighter vein his "Promanade A Mule," by Faudrain won tremendous applause as did his singing of the Mallotte arrangement of "Sing A Song of Sixpence," which he dramatized with delightful naivety and humor. His happy humor and contagious mirth featured again in "Susan Is Her Name," his repeat performances from last year of "The Big Brown Bear" and "Shortnin' Bread."

Feet were set tapping by his keenly rhythmic rendition of "Can't You Hear Me Calling, Caroline," the spiritual "There's No hiding Place Down There."

Other spirituals which he sang with an inborn rhythm, humor and happy philosophy were "Lord, I Want To Be A Christian," "Ain't That Good News," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and the well-loved "Joshua Fit De Battle of Jericho."

The well-known English air by Purcell, "I Attempt From Love's Sickness to Fly," he sang with understanding.

APPEARS TONIGHT

A reading of "The Creation" completed Mr. Spencer's program. Accompanist was Mr. Gordon Kushner, who also played the "Caprice in E Minor" by Mendelssohn, and "Malagwana" by Ernesto Lecuoana, and the comic descriptive composition, "The Little White Donkey."

On Tuesday evening, Mr. Spencer will again sing at the First Baptist church, when his program will be:

O Canada.

1. "Si tral ceppi," by Handel; "Dido's Lament," from Dido and Aeneas, by Purcell; "Der Jungling an die Quelle," Schubert; "Aufenthalt" by Schubert.
2. "Il Lacerato Spirito," (Simon Boccanegra), by Verdi; "Vous qui faites l'endormie" (Faust), Gounod.
3. "I Attempt from Love's Sickness to Fly," Purcell; "Three Fisheys Went Sailing," J. Hullah; "My Lovely Celia," Munroe; "The Green-eyed Dragon," Wolsely Charles.
4. Piano solos by Mr. Kushner.
5. Readings by Mr. Spencer.
6. "Deep River," by Burleigh; "Get on Board," arr. Hall Johnson; "I Been 'Buked," arr. Eva Jessye; "On Ma Journey," arr. Boatner.

EDSON, Oct. 8—Cecil Robinson's store at Niton, 100 miles west of Edmonton, was the scene of a safe-cracking job some time between 10:30 Sunday night and 8 a.m. Monday when the store opened. A check-up discloses a shortage of approximately $600, all in cash, and one advance grain ticket.

Two 100-pound sacks of sugar and a pair of overalls were thrown over the safe by the burglars to muffle the sound of the explosion. The safe, one of the usual cabinet type, had the door sprung.

R.C.M.P. are investigating.

FORT NORMAN GAS SUPPLIES NORTH PLANES

Arctic's Own Motor Fuel May Supply Orient Air Routes

Production of aviation gasoline at Fort Norman this year cut gasoline costs to a fraction of their former level in the far north and this production likely will be of tremendous importance after the war when the north may be the chief route to the Orient, it was stated by Ronald W. MacKinnon, who returned from Norman Wells, Monday, after spending the summer superintending operations there.

Mr. MacKinnon, manager of the Northwest Company, Limited, a subsidiary of Imperial Oil, stated that this year the refinery at Fort Norman supplied all the aviation gas needs from Fort Simpson to the Arctic and gasoline for motorboats as far south as Yellowknife.

LOW COST

To bring aviation gasoline up to the required 87 octane rating, it is necessary to add an imported fuel called hydrocodimer but the gasoline is supplied at a cost of 30 cents a gallon plus sales tax or a total cost of approximately 60 cents a gallon.

"I have paid as high as $3 a gallon for gasoline in the north, so you can see what this means," Mr. MacKinnon said.

A new type of diesel fuel for high speed diesels, such as those on the boats, also was produced this year at a cost of 18 cents plus tax, or about 20 cents a gallon. The cost of this fuel shipped from Waterways used to be 70 to 75 cents a gallon at Fort Norman.

The new refinery equipment installed this year made possible this production, Mr. MacKinnon said. He believed the field still had a big potential of future production.

PIONEER NORTH

Mr. MacKinnon, a pioneer civil engineer on railway construction, who surveyed the Canadian Northern line from Entrance to the Divide in the Rockies when it was necessary to walk the whole distance from Edmonton, has been connected with the Fort Norman development since 1921. The first well was brought in there in 1920. This year he employed a crew of 25.

Northern development now is his passion and he recalled that in the winters of 1921-22 and 1922-23 he travelled on snowshoes with dog teams from Fort Norman to McMurray, 1,300 miles.

Flying Officer Hinch explained the constant process of elimination and education which results in the complete fitness of each recruit for the service in which he finally engages in an active capacity.

Lack Of Supplies Delays Opening Of New Schools

Delay of about two weeks in construction of two new Edmonton schools has been caused by a wartime scarcity of certain building materials and some kinds of labor, according to an official of the public school board.

The Westglen high school on 127 street, between 109 and 109A avenues, and the Glenora elementary school between 135 and 136 streets between 102 and 103 avenues are now expected to be finished by about October 22.

Heavy volume of work in progress at the city airport has been responsible for the shortage of some types of labor, it was stated.

RURAL RESIDENT GETS TWO YEARS ON THEFT COUNT

Francis J. Clarkson, country resident, will serve two years in penitentiary for burglary and theft, following a plea of guilty to both counts in city police court Tuesday.

Accused admitted breaking into a store at Waugh and stealing $50 in cash, and a quantity of meats, groceries and tobaccos. Earlier accused, along with a companion, had stolen a 1929 model car from a garage in the Calder district.

The companion had bolted for liberty when the two had been approached by R.C.M.P. officers. He is still at large.

Early Resident Of Jasper Park Buried Tuesday

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

JASPER, Oct. 8.—The death last Saturday of Mrs. Louisa Otto, wife of R. Closson Otto, well-known outfitter, guide and businessman of Jasper Park, came as a distinct shock to a large circle of friends. Funeral services will be held in the Jasper United church Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. Canon McComas, of St. Mary's Anglican church, officiating in the absence of Rev. N. D. McInnes.

Mrs. Otto had been a resident of Jasper Park for 30 years. She came over the mountain trails in 1910 from Golden, B.C., with her husband when Jasper town was merely a few tents, and had seen it grow into a world-famous resort. She had been the gracious hostess to many visitors, especially during the pioneer days of the park.

Soldiers Praise British Spirit On Return Home

Stating that the spirit of the British people is really wonderful and proclaiming they were all "treated fine over there," three membrs of th First Battalion, Edmonton Regiment, and two members of the First Canadian Pioneer Battalion (9th Army Troops, R.C.E.) arrived back in Edmonton Sunday evening from England.

The men were returned to Canada as medically unfit, although none suffered any actual wounds. They were Pte. A. L. Parnham, Pte. J. A. Kennett, Pte. C. P. O'Schileyn of the 49th; Sappers F. C. Pearce and R. G. Kay of the Pioneers.

They said that this is strictly an air and sea war and the British are winning it. They had much to say in tribute to the British fliers and said that a lot of the German fliers are young fellows of about 16 and 17 years of age.

PROBE INTO ACCOUNTS IS NOW ORDERED

Board To Investigate City Hospital's Bookkeeping System

Edmonton's hospital board Monday evening ordered further investigation of the Royal Alexandra hospital accounts and the examination of the bookkeeping and auditing system of the institution by City Comptroller A. A. Campbell and B. G. Aylen, C.A., of the firm of Kinnaird & Aylen, chartered accountants.

Motion for further investigation was made by Ald. Sidney Parsons following presentation of report on three accounts which have been investigated by the auditors. Mrs. T. Taylor seconded the motion.

The investigators reported on three items involving $505.65. The facts concerning these accounts as disclosed by the investigation were laid before the board without recommendation.

THREE PAYMENTS

Investigation of an account for $515.25 contracted by a district indigent showed that two payments of $200 each had been made by the provincial government, and a further payment of $450 by the federal government. The provincial government payments were entered in the account, but that made by the federal government was held in cash account and only $72.75 of the amount credited to the account.

The balance of $377.25, according to the report, was designated to be used for payment of indigent accounts, but no receipts were on file showing the disposition of this amount.

The second account reported on was a payment of $29.05 stated to have been made on an account contracted in 1929 and paid that year. No record of payment appears in the hospital books, and the account was written off as a bad debt in 1934.

RECEIPT HELD

According to the report of the investigators, a receipt for this amount is held by the son of the person contracting the account. The investigators were instructed to have this receipt forwarded to Edmonton for inspection.

The third account involves a deal in which five mink were taken in payment of a $99.35 hospital account. These mink were acquired in 1938 and are still at a district mink farm.

Dr. A. F. Anderson, superintendent of the hospital, told the board he did not remember being informed of the deal at the time it was made, but added that the hospital had to make thousands of barter deals in an effort to get accounts paid, and it was possible this deal was not reported. He said the hospital at different times had to take puppies, lumber, hay and wheat to satisfy accounts.
